SATURDAY IS TAG DAY FOR FLOAT FUND

Business Women Will Get
Funds for Glendale's
Float

BE NETWORK WOMEN
Will Attempt to Have Business Houses Get
100 Per Cent

The stage is all set for tag day Saturday for the Glendale float. The drive will be in charge of the Business and Professional Women's Club of this city. Dr. Laura Brown being the commanding general, with captains at the fourteen posts as follows:

Brand and Broadway, Mrs. A. Walton.
Brand and Wilson, Mrs. H. V. Brown.
Brand and California, Dr. H. L. Hukill.
Brand and Howard, Miss Blanche Warner.
Brand and Colorado, Dr. C. P. Jackman.
Broadway and Central, Brosseau.
Broadway and Louise, Doctors Hurt and Haverman.
Broadway and Jackson, Mrs. Mabel Judd.
Broadway and Glendale avenue, Mrs. Jack Thomas.
Brand and Park Avenue, Mrs. Brown.
Brand and Los Feliz, Mrs. Margaret Biggs.
Doran and Columbus, Miss Grace Osborn.
Los Feliz and San Fernando, Mrs. M. P. Moberly.
Central and Stocker, Mrs. Cora Ayres.

From these fourteen posts skirmish lines will be thrown out to capture every man and woman seeking to penetrate the lines, no releases being made until the captive has secured a passport by the purchase of a tag.

The minimum price of these tags has been fixed at 25c, but the order has been passed from captain, lieutenant, sergeant and corporal down to the most humble private to any offers of $1 for the tag or to buy in wholesale lots, are to be accepted.

In submitting the proposition to the Business Women's Club, Secretary J. M. Rhoades explained that while money for the float is the object of the tag sale, the aim is not so much to get large sums as to secure large participation to make the Glendale float a community affair in which every family is financially interested. Under this campaign program the effort will be to secure 100 per cent representation of the employees of every place of business in the city, even though the donors can give but a few cents.

Mr. Rhoades feels if the city as a whole backs the float it will mean a great deal more than if a few generous souls furnish the money. He anticipates, and so do the business women who have enthusiastically undertaken their task, that there will be a universal response and that the returns will exceed the limit mentioned by Mr. Rhoades.

Glendale citizens are therefore asked to have some jingling coins in their pockets Saturday and not imagine that they can get by with the tender of a large bill, as the captains will be provided with plenty of change to meet just such emergencies.

Three stations will be occupied Saturday evening, one at the corner of Brand and Broadway, the other two opposite the theaters.

High school girls and business women who can serve for all or part time in any capacity are asked to report to Dr. Laura Brown, Room 6, First National Bank Bldg., Telephone 1000-J, or to tender their services to any of the captains mentioned. No high school girls will be allowed to serve after 5 o'clock, and the workers will be relieved every few hours throughout the day.

GETS RESULTS IN PRESS FROM OVER COUNTRY

In transmitting his subscription renewal to the Glendale Daily Press, C. E. Blake of San Jacinto says: "We like your paper and would rather have it than any paper we take, and we have the Examiner, San Jacinto Register, Hemet News and San Fernando Valley Press, so you see, it is some compliment. As for advertising, I have had better results with less money from your paper than any other paper. I received an answer to an ad in your paper from Michigan, also one from Missouri. You must be getting a large circulation."

Wide Range Is Seen in James' Comments Upon News of Day

American immigration laws might be better, says Henry James in his comments on the day's news on the editorial page this evening. "It takes the imagination sorely to figure how they could be worse," he adds. Then he pays his respects to the speeder and says that drivers of cars apparently are willing that the other fellow should take a chance. He touches on the fact that criminals in Chicago are so well organized that they present a grave problem; takes a whack at persons who desert and even discusses the status of Orientals made citizens because of their service to this country during the war. So it is seen that Mr. James covers a wide field in his comments.

James W. Foley in "The Listening Post" writes on Knowledge most entertainingly. He says for young people the greatest legacy is "a legacy of health, ambition and knowledge, or the wish to get knowledge." It is, he says, a greater legacy than all the wealth of Monte Cristo.

There are other features on the editorial page that will command your interest and attention this evening. Dr. Frank Crane, John Pilgrim and others contribute.

HOLDUP MEN RAID WORKMEN'S CAMP NEAR GLENDALE

Take $60 in Cash, Shoot
Man in Arm and Make Escape

Holdup men swept down on a construction camp outside of Glendale on the state highway between Sunland and San Fernando man got away with $60 in cash and three watches.

W. J. Walker, an employee at the camp reported the holdup to the Glendale police and later reported to county officers when told that the holdup occurred outside the limits of the Glendale police jurisdiction.

He said that two men entered the camp last night about 9:30 and ordered the men to put up their hands. One of the camp employees in attempting to save some of his property was shot through the right arm. County authorities were given a fairly good description of the men.

PATIENTS IN SANITARIUM ARE TOO NOISY

H. V. Henry Asks Council for Relief in Vicinity of Hospital

TO BE INVESTIGATED

Declare Insane Patient
Keeps Up Noise at Canyon Crest

H. V. Henry, representing the J. Harvey McCarthy company, a Los Angeles real estate company, which recently purchased the Barnwell tract on Wilson street just off of Broadway last night communicated with the city council and filed a complaint against the Canyon Crest Sanitarium.

It was alleged that the sanitarium is violating a city ordinance by harboring insane patients. The letter alleged that the patients are a nuisance inasmuch as the more violent ones keep up a continual noise. It also stated that the less violent cases are allowed to walk about the grounds of the sanitarium.

The letter was signed by H. V. Henry and verified by Messrs. F. J. Raven, Walter Maesby and John B. Rogers, who stated in their verification that they had visited the sanitarium with Mr. Henry and found that his statement regarding the home is true.

The matter was referred to City Manager Reeves, who was asked to investigate the complaint and make a report on conditions at the sanitarium at the next meeting of the council.

NEW ASSOCIATION FOR SOUTH SIDE IS FORMED

W. Griffin Named President of Active Club
Wednesday

San Fernando boulevard, the old historic thoroughfare which served for many years as the only business center for the southern part of Glendale, is coming into its own again, as all who have watched the growth of the city have always predicted it would do when Glendale got over the first spasmodic convulsions of its growing pains.

Wednesday evening a San Fernando Boulevard Improvement Association was organized in the office of W. Griffin, plumber, whose place of business is on San Fernando road. More than twenty owners of property in the vicinity of Park and San Fernando were present and permanent officers were elected, as follows: W. Griffin, president; L. H. Wilson, secretary; A. Anderson, treasurer.

Several committees were appointed and plans were made for a booster meeting to take place the evening of January 5.

While the betterment of San Fernando road will be the chief concern of this organization, it is not disposed to be selfish but will cooperate with all agencies working for civic progress.

Members present at the organization meeting were: E. N. Davis, C. E. Brown, A. J. Thorpe, Homer Roberts, H. S. Cobb, L. W. Bagan, Walter Lee, C. W. Wilson, Roy Johnson, M. R. Best, J. Fuhrman, J. C. Smith, J. J. Burke, William Moffitt and B. Green.

PRACTICAL JOKE ON COURT CLERK

Plaster Dog Seated in Clerk's Chair When Court Opens Today

When traffic court opened this morning a broad smile swept over the faces of those unfortunates gathered before the bar of justice and it was to laugh. Some one had played a practical joke on the court.

In the seat usually occupied by the clerk of courts sat a large plaster dog of the type used to advertise a well-known phonograph. Seated in the clerk's chair and anchored to a table leg with a rope large enough to haul logs, the dog sat with head cocked to one side and viewed the court until Judge F. H. Lowe entered and ordered the dog removed.

Who placed the dog in the chair, where he came from, and what finally became of the dog is still as much of a mystery as "How old is Ann?" Suffice to say that he was there and the way of the traffic transgressor was lightened by a smile.

How to Beat Los Angeles To Trade of Other Cities

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Prosperity Editor Glendale Daily Press

There's more than one way of "beating the devil around a stump." Glendale merchants are invited to take a leaf out of the Los Angeles merchants' book. It can be done.

If Los Angeles merchants, with the friendly assistance of the new Pacific Electric auxiliary stage lines, are pirating in Glendale territory, there's nothing to prevent Glendale merchants pirating in some other territory—say in Pasadena and Hollywood. It is being done.

As a matter of fact the shopping district of Glendale is more easily reached by automobile from Pasadena and Hollywood than the shopping district of Los Angeles. The distance is less, the roads better and there is no traffic jam to get entangled with. So, why not?

That is the question one enterprising Glendale business house asked itself. Then it tried and found it could be done. It advertised in Hollywood and Hollywood people came to Glendale and bought.

They came by automobile and this suggested further enterprise on the part of the Glendale business house. Its Hollywood advertisements announced that prospective customers temporarily without automobiles might have a car sent for them by notifying the Glendale address.

This brought further results and every day now a big seven-passenger touring car makes several trips between Hollywood and Glendale, bringing Hollywood purchasers to Glendale shops—for some of the Hollywood visitors make the most of their opportunity by doing other shopping here.

Fine idea, is it not? And it came all the way from Tucson, Arizona. It was brought here by W. C. Page, who liked the looks of Glendale, became sold on its future and less than a year ago opened the Page Furniture store on East Broadway. This is his first Christmas season in our midst.

But W. C. Page did more than open a furniture store in this city. He brought ideas with him and has put them into practice. He saw no reason why, because his store was on Broadway, Glendale, instead of Broadway, Los Angeles, he should not sell furniture in Pasadena, or Santa Monica, or Long Beach, or any other city to which the trade in Los Angeles caters.

So he advertised in neighboring communities and that is the keynote of his success. Today the Page company is selling furniture not only in surrounding towns but even in Los Angeles. It handles only high class goods and sells at closest prices. The company has just closed a contract to completely furnish a new apartment house in Venice in the face of competition with large dealers in Los Angeles.

"My success in Glendale has been far in advance of anything I had looked forward to in so short a time," said Mr. Page today. He carries a stock in excess of $30,000 and has the largest ground floor furniture salesroom in Southern California outside of Los Angeles.

In W. C. Page's success in eleven months there ought to be a hint for other merchants in Glendale. If Los Angeles, with the help of the public carriers, steals Glendale trade it ought to be fair enough for Glendale to beat the bigger city to some of the trade of other communities. And Mr. Page has shown the way to do it.

GARBAGE RULES NOW CHANGED

Patrons of City May Now
Mail Checks to City Hall

The matter of the new garbage ordinance came up last night at the meeting of the city council and the ordinance was passed, setting the fee for collection of garbage at $1 per quarter and specifying that the fee be paid by mail instead of in person, as has heretofore been the custom.

Under the new ordinance the garbage fee can be paid by mailing a check for the quarterly fee to the public service department. This department will mail the collection tag back to the taxpayer. To pay the fee in person it will not be necessary to make the payments to the city clerk as in the past. They can be paid to the department of public service, as this department will have charge of the collection of the fees under the new ordinance.

ROY GARDNER AT LEAVENWORTH FOR BRIEF VISIT?

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Dec. 16.—Roy Gardner, notorious western bandit, mail robber and champion jail breaker, is again behind prison bars—but with a threat that his stay here will be only "temporary." Under close guard, Gardner arrived at the federal prison here last night, carrying only a small bundle.

"Is that all the baggage you have?" Warden Biddle asked. "I think that will do—temporarily," Gardner replied.

Gardner is under 25 years sentence for robbing a mail car at Phoenix, Ariz., and assaulting Herman Indertler, clerk in charge of the car.

HAROLD GILSON IN COUNTY JAIL

Second Offense for Speeding on Brand Blvd.
With Motorcycle

Harold Gilson will spend the next 30 days in the county jail for speeding the streets of Glendale for a motorcycle speedway. He was arrested this morning by Motorcycle Officer Trautwein for driving a motorcycle along Brand boulevard at a rate of 51 miles per hour.

Gilson pleaded guilty in Police Judge F. H. Lowe's court. As Gilson is not a stranger in traffic court he received the stiff sentence. It is alleged that he makes a practice of using Brand boulevard as a speedway and drives his motor along the streets without regard for the safety of other people. He was arrested recently and fined $25 and also ordered to serve five days in the county jail.

MASKED BANDITS ROBBED STATE BANK

ITHACA, Neb., Dec. 16.—Two masked bandits shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon entered and robbed the Farmers' State bank here. The men escaped in an automobile, driving rapidly northward.

A sheriff's posse armed with rifles has picked up the trail and is headed towards Fremont in pursuit of the bandits.

The amount of plunder has not yet been determined, bank officials say.

BRING IN SCHOONER.
SEATTLE, Dec. 16.—Dismasted and helpless, the Barken line Hesperian is being towed into port by the tug Tyce, which picked her up 25 miles off Cape Flattery early this morning. She was brought through the capes at 4:15 a. m., according to advices received by the Merchants exchange.

FRANCE STANDS IN WAY OF PROGRESS ARMS PARLEY

Great Britain Wants All
Submarines Abolished
for Warfare

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—A world-wide limitation of naval armament—a dream for the last century is near reality. France alone stood blocking the formal execution of a treaty limiting the naval establishments of the world powers. But this attitude of France is expected to be only temporary. Neither the American nor the British delegation will permit France's application for the right of a navy equalling Japan's to stand in the way of a naval limitation success.

With France sensitive as to her national prestige, some difficulty in inducing her to accept a ratio below that of Japan's is expected but according to a high American authority this is virtually certain to be "washed out."

Coupled with the spectacular and disturbing demand by France came notification today from Arthur J. Balfour that Great Britain will ask total abolition of submarines.

France's demand for 350,000 tons took the form of a proposal by Admiral Lobon in yesterday's meeting for the right to build ten capital ships of 35,000 tons each in the ten year period starting with 1925. Italy proposed, through Senator Schanzer, who pointed out this was a tremendous increase in involving heavy economic consequences. Britain opposes and American delegation holds the result of such a program would be very serious.

NAME FRAMM AS TREE CUSTODIAN

City Council Considers Him Qualified to Watch Trees

Last night the city council met as a committee of the whole and was confronted with the problem of who would care for the trees in the city parkways.

The office of city forester was abolished in the recent expense slash at the city hall and the trees are without a care-taker. After some discussion, Emil Framm, who is employed by the city, was chosen as the man for the work. Mr. Framm was formerly a nurseryman and was considered by the council as the best qualified candidate for the position.

Councilman Davis offered a resolution to the council thanking Fire Chief Langford and his men for their work in rebuilding the Knox fire engine that a former city administration recommended junked.

Fire Chief Langford and members of the department overhauled and rebuilt the engine and at the official test the rebuilt machine proved as efficient as any machine on the department. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

AGREEMENT IS REACHED ON NAVAL PLANS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—A complete agreement on limitation of naval armament was reached at a meeting of the big three today, Arthur J. Balfour, Britain's representative at the conference, indicated.

"We are through," Balfour tersely said after the meeting. He would make no further comment, but indicated his words should be taken to mean that a settlement had been reached. Reports were current that a plenary session would be held soon.

WELFARE ASS'N HAS BIG MEETING ON DRIVE PLANS

Will Support Bonds and Luken's Site for High School

About 50 loyal citizens of Glendale, members of the East Glendale Welfare Association, who are actively interested themselves in the carrying of the election to vote bonds for a high school site December 29, met at the Broadway school Thursday evening to review arguments which could be raised for or against the Lukens site at Verdugo and Broadway, and to canvass methods for interesting the electors in this vital matter and getting out the vote.

It had been expected that delegations from the membership of the South Glendale Improvement Association would be present and also from the West Glendale Welfare Association, but none reported and the group which was all of one mind and in favor of the East site, contented itself with reviewing objections to the Gray site.

Mrs. M. L. Tight quoted the comments of a man with whom she had talked whose place of business is not far from the Southern Pacific tracks. He had told her that the jar of the trains which shook his building was an annoyance and that the noise of the freight, some of them a mile long, in struggling up the grade, was also a great objection. He declared he would be unwilling to send his own son to a high school located so near a railroad whose traffic will increase rather than diminish.

Another objection raised was the nearness of the industrial district, which Mrs. Tight said had been extended by the zoning committee, the whole length of San Fernando as far north as the wash. The location of a high school close to the noise and smoke of a possible big industrial thoroughfare, was felt to be a very serious mistake.

R. W. Meeker, who arrived late, complained that the meeting was getting nowhere, that the thing which would count in carrying the bonds would be the personal canvass of voters. He had planned, he said, to take certain districts and deliver the vote, but might abandon the intention if no one else showed any disposition to work. Under such prodding men present tendered their services and automobiles for work both before and during the election, and members were urged to enlist as many campaign workers as possible and report their names to the campaign headquarters, the office of Mrs. Mabel Tight on East Broadway.

Mr. Elrod urged work in sections other than East Glendale, and asked the audience to co-operate in the auto parade to view the sites Saturday afternoon which will start from Columbus and Harvard at 2:30. He stated that a large number of machines had been secured and if members present would canvass their neighborhoods and get us parties, and telephone himself or Mrs. Tight, automobiles to pick them up at central points would be dispatched. All agreed that a view of the two sites would do more to interest the voting public in the high school question than any other campaign measure.

MANIAC KILLED LUND CITIZEN

Wire Vancouver for Police and to Apprehend
Man Running Wild

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 16.—A lunatic is loose in the town of Lund. One man has been killed. The inhabitants are terrified and some have been driven from their homes. A fast launch is speeding from Vancouver carrying provincial police to the aid of the distressed villagers.

A telegram to police headquarters signed "Lund Citizens" was received this morning appealing for help. The wire says that Lund people have taken to the hills because of the maniac, who is running amuck. Further casualties are feared. The names of the madman and the victim were not given in the telegram. Lund is about 80 miles from Vancouver.

SEVEN HAVE GIVEN FILLED STOCKINGS

One Little Girl From Sunny Kansas Brings in Gift

TWO SCORE NEEDED

People Urged to Give to Poor and Needy Children for Xmas

So far so good. There are seven well filled stockings in the window of the Glendale Daily Press, and each filled stocking is accompanied by its mate so that when Christmas is over, all the gifts removed from the stocking, the boy or girl will have a new pair of stockings for school wear.

A little girl from sunny Kansas brought in a well filled brown stocking yesterday, and a man who doesn't care to have his name known brought in two well filled stockings with their mates. Altogether, there are now seven filled stockings and seven empty with them and it is hoped there will be three times seven or four times seven before the middle of next week.

These stockings are going to be given to poor children of this city whose chances of getting up Christmas morning and finding something to make them happy, are slim. There are many great-hearted people in Glendale, there are several thousand church members who know the truth of the words: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

The Glendale Daily Press hopes to have at least 30 stockings to distribute, and more can be used. All you have to do is to buy a pair of children's stockings, all one with little gifts and tie the other to it, and bring or send it to the Santa Claus Editor of the Glendale Daily Press. The stockings will be distributed with great care so that children who are worthy and needy will receive them. Fix up a stocking today and bring it in. You will get great satisfaction from the fact that you are helping to make some poor child happy. After all, Christmas is really a period in which everybody should be made happy. You can be happy by making some child happy. Do it now.

TEACHERS PUT IN MONEY FLOAT FUND

P. T. A. Federation Also Gives Toward Float for Big Parade

Two new contributions have been added to the float fund. The new contributions total $55.25. One of $40.25 comes from the High School Teachers' Club, and the other is a second contribution from the Glendale federation of Parent-Teacher associations, the latter contribution being $15.

While the people of Glendale are contributing to the fund, money is not coming in as fast as it should and the time for raising the funds to prepare the float for the Pasadena tournament of roses is growing short.

This float is not a chamber of commerce project but is to be entered as coming from Glendale, and every contribution to the fund will have a share in the glory when the entry from this city is awarded first prize, as it undoubtedly will if the people of Glendale will cooperate with L. W. Chobe, designer of the float, and the chamber of commerce in the matter of contributing funds to carry on the work.

Come on, Glendale! Get busy! Don't be classed as a city with no civic pride! Dig deep and contribute to the float fund. Give a dollar if that is all that you can afford but everyone give something so that when the Glendale float passes on New Year's day, you can say with pride: "There goes my float; I contributed money to make it a success!"

LIBRARIAN WAS ALSO BOOTLEGGER

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 16.—Folks like animal stories, but it is the first time that "blind pigs" and "jackass brandy" were ever found among the dry tomes of a library. The branch library of the Yolo county free library has been closed because the custodian has been arrested on the charge of bootlegging.

"I didn't know we catered to other than literary tastes," said Milton Ferguson, state librarian, in making the announcement today. "Inside the Cup" is said to have been the "best cellar" on the shelves.

EDITORIALS

By the People

Editor Glendale Press:

"What are the relations of the two proposed high school sites to the geographical and population centers of Glendale? This question is stirring the minds of many citizens this month and to such, the following facts should be of interest.

The mileage data was obtained December 9 from the city engineer at the city hall. The figures embrace two important recent additions to the city of Glendale, viz., the annexation of 1186 acres last August 11, which carried Glendale's easterly line to the limits of Pasadena; also the Laurel avenue district annexation, November 29, of 401 acres, which now causes Glendale's west line to join Burbank.

"Air-line distance from most eastern point of Glendale (Pasadena line) to northwest corner of Doran and Kenilworth (Grey site) is 24,840 feet, of 4.70 miles.

"Air-line distance from most western present boundary of Glendale to southeast corner of Verdugo road and Broadway (Lukens site) is 22,056 feet, or 4.18 miles. Advantage in favor of the Lukens site 2784 feet.

"Air-line distance from Tropic fire house (old city hall) to Doran and Kenilworth, northwest corner, 9870 feet of 1.87 miles. Air-line distance from Tropic fire house to northeast corner Verdugo road and Colorado, 8220 feet or 1.56 miles. Advantage in favor of the Lukens site, 21 mile or 1650 feet, less 145 feet (which must be subtracted at the corner oil station), making a net difference between the distances to the two sites of 1455 feet.

"Air-line from north city limits of Glendale to the two sites is about the same, but anyone can observe that the practical advantage is with the Lukens site because the traffic of that section must come down Verdugo road before it can turn west.

"Notice especially that the above data deals only with Glendale city proper and does not involve the other parts of the union high school district. Their interests all the more heavily throw the advantage to the Lukens site. The above statistics should absolutely settle any argument as to whether or not the Lukens (Broadway) site is nearer than the Grey site to the geographical center of Glendale.

"An interesting illustration of the locations of these two sites may be made if the enquirer lays the end of a two-mile line on the Grey site and allows it to swing as the radius of a circle. Since the air-line distance of the Grey site from the nearest point of San Fernando road is only about 1600 feet, such a circle would run into Griffith Park near the Glendale-Burbank boundary, and after enclosing several square miles, swing back into Glendale near the Tropic end of Brand boulevard. These four square miles approximately in Griffith Park would be not at all in our union high school district, as is Eagle Rock, nor would such extensive park area ever contain a large tributary population as Eagle Rock does. Such a two-mile radius describing a circle about the Lukens site would take in comparatively little territory outside the union district.

"As to the center of population, if we use the recent November enrollment at the Glendale union high school as a basis, we find that in Glendale, alone the figures prove almost an even break:

"West of Brand were 458 students.

"East of Brand were 423 students.

"This gives the west an advantage of 35. However, the 215 students from Eagle Rock, Tujunga, Sunland, and La Crescenta, who all arrive from east of Brand, give an advantage of 180 students to the east side.

"If it is desired to figure north and south, there were only 397 students north of Broadway to 484 south of Broadway. With the 123 from Eagle Rock added to those south of Broadway, and those from the other districts (92) added to the number north, we have 607 south as against 489 north. As the Lukens site is south of Broadway the north and south statistics would favor it.

"The Lukens site, then, is fairly balanced against the Grey site as to center of population if Glendale alone is considered and decidedly favored if the whole district is brought into the problem.

"Our conclusion must be that the Lukens site is more central, both in respect to geography and to population.

"This communication is meant to cover only data bearing on the important point of central location and will not, therefore, expand upon a number of other superior attractions of the Broadway site, such as the following:

"1. It is more beautifully situated.

"2. It is better located for street car and bus lines.

"3. It has three fine thoroughfares, Broadway, Colorado and Verdugo road.

"4. It is safer from storm waters.

"5. It is less exposed to wind storms.

"6. It will not be subjected to the noise of railroad trains and industrial district conditions.

"7. It has richer soil.

"8. It has a water supply of 25 miners' inches.

"9. It has over $12,000 of fine street work already done.

'DORMIE' AFFAIR CAUSE OF REGRET

Teddy Gives Views on San Francisco Tragedy of Cats

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.—"I dislike very much to be quoted on this notorious 'Dormie' affair at San Francisco." Such was the assertion of Teddy Sennett here today, when interviewed at his Alhambra street headquarters.

"I appreciate, however, that the movie colony is required to react to every crime story in the United States," Teddy continued. "Those are the accepted newspaper ethics," the interviewer agreed, reminiscently.

"That is most unfortunate," Teddy asserted. He scratched an ear with a bare foot. "It is particularly unfortunate in that it has developed a clique of professional reactors here in the film business. They are worse than any ham actors I ever saw. They are publicity hounds—or, rather, mongrels. They insist upon being interviewed and upon having their names associated with every crime story that develops. They bring an odium upon the entire picture colony. That is why I hesitate to comment upon the Dormie murder case."

"We are determined to get a statement from Hollywood upon the 13 murders which are attributed to Dormie," the reporter pointed out, using a time-honored bludgeon of the newspaper business.

"If you do not give it to us, we will have to obtain it elsewhere—from sources that may not be so favorable to you or your friends."

"Yes, that is true," said Teddy, with a sigh that developed into a fang-exhibiting yawn. "Well, you may say for me that inasmuch as this Dormie is an Airedale, that, in my opinion, explains it all.

"For what is an Airedale but a glorified mongrel? An Airedale has no more real social standing than—than John Henry, Jr., when he tips over a camera."

"I do not doubt but that Dormie is guilty of the 13 feline murders laid at his door. He is said to be an Englishman. Well, I mistrust Englishmen ever since Mr. Chaplin appeared at the studio in an orange limousine and Charlie Murray saw him."

"As I say, I do not doubt but that he is guilty. However—"

Teddy cocked an eye into the next cage at "Pepper" Sennett, who promptly spit back at him in green-eyed malevolence. "I think he ought to get a bonus for every one of those 13 cats he killed!"

So the reporter left the Mack Sennett studios well satisfied.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen in a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

SENATOR REED IS BITTER IN ATTACK

Says Oriental Skill Beats Occidental Mind in All Points

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—America gives Japan "tremendously important vantage points from which to strike at the United States" and allows Japan to retain naval bases "which would render her immune from attack," under the four-power Pacific treaty, Senator Reed, Missouri, democrat, declared in the senate.

The "irreconcilable" Missourian continued his denunciation of the "5-5-3" naval ratio agreement, declaring that "the power of American ships when correctly tabulated were far below the 5-5-3 ratio".

The naval program agreed upon by the arms conference, Reed declared, would assure England and Japan supremacy in the Pacific. Under the terms of article 1 of the "quadruple alliance," he said, the United States would be "morally bound" to protect the territorial integrity of Japan against aggression.

"These facts," said Reed, "furnish additional evidence that the occidental mind in diplomacy is no match for Oriental skill."

Reed said he wished to make it plain that he was "not opposing disarmament" and that he would support "any sensible plan for peace or for friendly discussion of questions in the Pacific."

Reed declared that Great Britain and France dominated the Panama canal, which he described as "America's jugular vein," through British and French possessions in the West Indies.

MRS. HAMAN HEAD OF WOMAN'S CLUBS

San Diego Society Woman Succeeds Mrs. Wahlford as Head

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 16.—Mrs. F. W. Haman of San Diego was elected president of the southern district, California Federation of Women's Clubs, by unanimous vote at a meeting of the district executive board. Mrs. Haman will succeed Mrs. A. W. Wohlford of Escondido, who resigned the presidency at the district convention held in Santa Ana last month.

The board passed resolutions asking that congress make an appropriation of $75,000 for a new building at the Sherman Institute, and that until such building be erected California children should be given preference for admittance. A resolution endorsing the plan of making Palm canyon a national monument was passed unanimously. Reports from district officers showed a gratifying increase in membership.

The meeting adjourned following luncheon.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 16.—The Memphis Press today printed a story saying the Southern Railway and Rock Island railway lines may combine into one huge transcontinental railway system with Memphis and St. Louis as the connecting points. This arrangement would give the Southern-Rock Island a through track from Washington to Tucson, Ariz., using the El Paso and Southwestern from Santa Rosa, N. M., to Tucson.

The building of 160 miles of road through level country between Tucson and Yuma, Ariz., would enable the Southern-Rock Island to connect with the San Diego and Arizona, which has terminals and harbor facilities at San Diego, California.

Truths in Epigram

I'm armed with more than complete steel,—

IMPORTANCE OF HOTELS

Throughout southern California there is a growing realization of the importance of hotels. Every enterprising community knows that in this resort of tourists, the accommodations must be of the highest class. If such a community is well prepared in respect of hotels, then it is ready to support them in every way, to acknowledge the good they accomplish. If such hotels are lacking, the impulse is to establish them.

This spirit was displayed in Los Angeles when a group of citizens supplied a necessary $4,000,000 fund to insure the erection of a hotel worthy the size and enterprise of a great city.

Perhaps in all the list of cities in this section Pasadena owes most to its hotels. These hotels are famous throughout the world. The Huntington, largest of the number, designed exclusively to entertain the class of tourists least concerned as to the cost of their pleasure, is admittedly one of the finest of its class in the United States. In a sense, it was built on faith. The builders felt that there would be a demand for it, and they made ready in advance to meet the demand. Their faith has been fully justified.

Together with the Maryland and Green, owned by the same company, the Huntington has cut rates very materially. They have been cut, indeed, to a point that eliminates all profit except as the change may lead to additional patronage. It is not to be expected that rates at a hotel tremendous in size and elaborate in equipment, can be at a level suited to commercial trade. For people who do not desire to meet Huntington rates, the Maryland and Green afford ample room and delightful entertainment. The social side of the Maryland makes it exceptional among hotels of its type.

The Raymond was constructed when Pasadena was a mere hamlet. The Vista del Arroyo has come to meet modern needs. Altogether Pasadena has reason to be proud of its hotels. The prosperity of these hotels is an index to the prosperity of all lines of business. It promotes the general prosperity distinctly. Visitors come because they know there are desirable hotels available. Having come, many of them elect to stay. While they stay, either for long time or short, they naturally spend considerable sums directly into the channels of trade. The current of these channels is much augmented by the purchases made by the management of the hotels to keep the institutions as "going concerns." Supplies and equipment are bought in vast quantities. The total paid to employees is tremendous.

As Pasadena has found the maintenance of first class hotels profitable, so may other communities in this end of the state.

THE PARTY ORGAN

"A party organ suppressing some facts, misrepresenting others, is the worst of all guides, because it can by incessantly reiterating untruth, produce a deeper impression than any man or body of men, even only ecclesiastics clothed with spiritual authority, could produce before printing was invented."

So says Viscount James Bryce in a chapter on Democracy and Education in his "Modern Democracies." The book itself is the result of the best thought of a brilliant, cultured and ripened intellect. It is written without fear and without prejudice. There will be small tendency to take issue with the writer on the point set forth in quotation. Indeed, only a presumptuous student of events would be likely to take issue on any point in the volumes, lucid are the claims, and so clear and scholarly the defense of each.

What would be true of a party organ would be equally applicable to an organ devoted to promotion of the interests or fads or delusions of an individual. The worst newspaper offenders against truth and decency in this country are not party organs at all. They express the opinions of a single erratic and unwholesome mentality. This man has gathered about him capable writers to do his bidding. They have learned to see through his eyes, to accept his methods, to applaud his conclusions. It is even possible that after a long period of submergence in the poisonous atmosphere where they must dwell to earn bread and salt, they themselves become so warped, so twisted in their processes of thought, that they are sincere as they proclaim falsehood. At last they reach the stage of being incapable of self-analysis.

The people of this nation and of the world are not on establishing peace. No project could be more worthy. Yet the set of papers under consideration have fought every suggestion that possibly could lead to international understanding, and thus peace.

They have flaunted a bogus patriotism. They have sought to sow the seeds of fear and distrust. They have accused peoples who sought to approach amity, of being treacherous wretches bent on destruction of the United States.

spurious, and loud alarms, purely fake, oppose every move that tends to make civilization safe. So a party organ has to share with other organs some of the discredit the distinguished James Bryce bestows upon it.

FLOODS AT PUGET SOUND

Seattle, with the region immediately around it, has been having a sorry time with floods. Great damage has been caused, and a number of deaths are recorded. Probably there still are some to record.

There seems to be no part of the known world not subject to visitations due to natural phenomena quite beyond human control. They may come as great winds, as earthquakes or the rushing of waters. The rainfall of the Puget Sound country is habitually heavy. As a rule the water courses are sufficient to carry it away without disaster. Seattle is accustomed to long continued rains such as in many another section could find no precedent, and yet it has not suffered particularly from floods. Low land has been under water occasionally, but such frequently is the case in northern California, while this end of the state has more than once observed its bridges floating away on torrents roaring fiercely along what had been dry and sandy ditches.

Seattle has the faculty of quick recovery. They had a tremendous fire up there once, but made no fuss about it, and soon built a better and smarter city. Doubtless the work of repair of the latest damage already is in progress.

FAIRNESS TO CHINA

According to reports from Washington the Shantung peninsula is to be returned to China. So also is the railway that has figured among the impositions from which China has suffered. Japan conceived the thought that the railway ought to be run by Japanese. There never has been a satisfactory showing of the basis on which the theory rested.

Japan might, for instance, desire to run the Union Pacific.

If nothing more were accomplished by the conference than the mere promotion of justice on behalf of the Chinese, that would be a great victory, far greater in all probability than appears on the face of it.

Attention has been called many times to the fact that China was getting in a mood to resent wrongs. It had been prodded into wakefulness. Just what would happen to the world as now constituted, were China to train its countless millions to fight, hardly is it to be conjectured. That Japan would disappear from the scene may be taken for granted. Japan therefore ought to be grateful that it has been argued or coerced into self-preservation. This was not the purpose it had in view, but this is the logical effect.

Japan has shown a tendency to be fair towards other nations. In instances of reluctance, it has been amenable to urging.

A scientist comes forward with the theory that the earth is solid. Nobody who ever experienced a fall from a ladder, or some similar method of sudden contact will take issue with him.

Robberies are getting so common now that when an actress says her jewels have been stolen nobody thinks she is merely making a bid for publicity.

The man who attempts to flatter you is either a fool or he thinks you are.

Lots of people are too conscientious to lie, and yet they manage to suppress the truth.

THE DAY OF FAITH

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Arthur Somers Roche has written a book which he calls "The Day of Faith."

It is rather an amazing book because of the propaganda it undertakes.

And that propaganda is amazing for a peculiar reason. That reason is that it is a truth which everybody is supposed to believe on Sunday and which everybody is inclined to sniff at during the rest of the week.

It is the gist of Christianity.

For the gospel thing in Christianity is not at all the faith in God which it preaches nor any other of its theological conceptions. For all other faiths have such things of their own.

Christianity contains one tenet which is peculiar, and that is, not faith in God but faith in one's neighbor. Mr. Roche's book is a story of a girl who took for her principle in life the thesis, "My Neighbor is Perfect."

It tells how she began just stating this and acting upon it in a small way, and how that by and by it swept through the nation and the world and transformed humanity, at least temporarily.

With the probabilities of the story each reader may have his own opinion. But the working out of the theme and the many arguments about it between the characters in the book contain the gist of its efficiency.

I welcome the book because it is an effort to do in the form of fiction what I have been trying for some years to do in the form of essays. And that is, to show that the only solution for the difficulties of this troubled world is for people to believe in each other.

John Leitch preaches the same thing through his "Industrial Democracy."

The little, sneering, cynical, doubting, pessimistic minds, who fill our club rooms and flood all our literature from the newspaper and magazine to the novel and the playhouse, would soon drown all decent faith in humanity if it were not for the sterling instincts of the race.

Many of us have wondered what would happen if people some day should quietly turn their backs on all of this yapping and simply believe that their neighbors were as honest and faithful as themselves.

Mr. Roche has worked this out very entertainingly. Governor McRae of Arkansas was so struck by this volume that he proclaimed a "Day of Faith" throughout the state.

If we could have a Day of Faith throughout the world it would be a great thing. There is only one trouble with the proposition. It is too simple, too plain, and has nothing to recommend it but common sense.

THE LISTENING POST

Out in the Children's Room just now there came a text for a Listening Post. There are texts for little sermons all about us if we will see them.

And Listening Posts aim to be little sermons. Very little ones, perhaps.

Not erudite or scholarly or academic or abstruse perhaps.

Not disputatious or dogmatic.

Not aiming to thresh out a great stack of straw to get a very shriveled kernel.

But perhaps to set you thinking about very simple things.

Because life is after all composed of a lot of simple things.

We take a lot of impulses and desires and passions and characteristics and we make them into some kind of a structure. And that is a life.

Just as a boy takes building blocks of various shapes and sizes and makes him a pattern upon the floor.

And two boys have the same sets of building blocks.

But they do not make the same pattern. For they arrange the blocks differently.

So lives takes on different patterns.

For we arrange the elements differently.

Some show the results of effort and care and conscientious arrangement.

And some are shapeless as though they just happened.

The artist takes a lot of colors and brushes and touches here and shadows there and fills in here and leaves out there and makes a masterpiece.

And the itinerant dauber sweeps a wide brush dripping with paint from side to side and paints the barn.

It is perhaps just as necessary to paint the barn as it is to make the masterpiece.

But the system is different.

And the itinerant dauber may get more for painting the barn than the artist gets for the masterpieces.

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Ingle-Side—By Hew Ainslee (1792-1878)

It's rare to see the morning breeze

Like a bonfire frae the sea,

It's fair to see the brunie kiss

The lip o' the flowery lea;

An' fine it is on green hillside,

Where hums the bonnie bee,

But rarer, fairer, finer far

'Is the ingle-side for me.

Glen's may be gilt wi' gowans rare,

The birds may fill the tree;

An' haughs hae a' the scented ware

The simmer-growth can gie;

But the canty hearth where cronies meet,

An' the darling o' our e'e,

That makes to us a warl' complete:

Oh, the ingle-side for me!

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Jane Addams believes in disarming everybody, but were a burglar to enter her house and she to ring for a policeman, she would find him more useful if he brought a gun.

It might be a good idea for some of the disagreeing Gardner jurors to plead insanity, too.

Doubtless the marines caused the natives of Haiti to feel outraged when order was restored in the island.

Anybody else in the world finding himself in the fix that Senator Watson is in, would resign.

Perhaps Uncle Sam will have to draw up a peace pact with Borah next.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE PACIFIC PRIMER

[Chicago Tribune]

How did Spain get into war with the United States? By having indefensible island possessions off the coast of the United States. Where was Spain defeated? In those island possessions and in other island possessions in the Philippines. What did Spain do when she had been defeated in these far away, indefensible possessions? She quit.

How can the United States get into war with Japan? By having indefensible island possessions off the coast of Japan. Where will the United States be defeated? In these indefensible island possessions. What will the United States do then? Quit? No. Fight the most stupid and one of the most useless wars known to man.

What for? To get back something the United States does not want but will not have taken away from it in humiliation and defeat. Such a war would be murder if it took the life of one American soldier. If all the trade of China depended on it, which it would not, the value of that would not pay the interest on the new national debt or ever replace the waste of men and material.

Europe is calculating the time which it gives the United States and Japan to remain at peace. If Japan and the United States play into that game they will deserve what they get, which will be to suffer and see themselves swept off the top of the world to give place to nations which will sell them war supplies.

SOUTH AND THE NEGRO

[St. Louis Globe Democrat]

The South needs the negro. It cannot get along without him. And the South should be the best place for the negro. Its climate suits him best, and given larger opportunity, he can find his happiest environment and surest progress there. With the political impediment removed he could be given that oppor-

Masterpieces are usually works that bring big prices after the artist is long dead and dust.

But to get back to the Children's Room. There are likenesses of thirty or forty men and women in there.

Among the great men and women of America. And a distinguishing characteristic of them is that they have all achieved their own distinction.

Nobody left it to them.

Nobody did it for them.

Nobody can do anything for you.

You must do for yourself.

As all of these men and women have done.

In rare instances did any of them have money left to them.

And where they did, they found it to be more of a hindrance than a help.

Except where it gave them opportunity to gain knowledge.

In most of the instances, the men and women battled for their own education.

They were trained in the school of struggle.

And they began at the bottom of things.

But all of them had:

HEALTH.

AMBITION.

KNOWLEDGE, or the desire to get it.

Desire and ambition are different.

Desire is the wish to get.

Ambition is the wish to achieve.

You see the difference.

So the Listening Post for today deals with legacies.

For young people.

And the greatest of them all is:
A LEGACY OF HEALTH, AMBITION AND KNOWLEDGE. OR THE WISH TO GET KNOWLEDGE.

It is a greater legacy than all the wealth of Monte Cristo.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

At this writing a Brazilian family is in danger of being sent back to South America. They do not desire to go. They would not become public charges were they to remain. They are not at fault. They seem to be wholly worthy.

It happens that there is necessity for the filing of a heavy bond to guarantee this great government against loss by their presence, a loss the government is not threatened with even remotely.

Relatives are prepared to support the family, so far as its members may need support, but the relatives have not a store of ready cash or bonds that they can proffer as lump security.

Unless some generous soul shall come to the rescue this family will be deported.

American immigration laws might be better. It taxes the immigration sorely to figure how they could be worse.

HENRY JAMES

A San Pedro man driving on the Harbor boulevard was stopped by the stalling of his machine. He stood by the disabled auto apparently signalling for somebody to give him aid.

Another machine came along, throwing his body, it is said, a distance of 200 feet. He was killed instantly.

This episode does not differ particularly from those occurring on the highways every day. The fact that no adequate excuse could be framed for it, but that it was an accident easily avoidable by the reasonable precautions of any competent driver, naturally comes to mind.

It is a fair presumption that when a machine has been stalled, the owner is not far away. To pass the place at a rate capable of knocking a man 200 feet involves a degree of risk that ought to be recognized. Drivers are willing that the other fellow should take a chance.

Chicago seems to be in a desperate way. It appears that criminals there are so well organized that the regularly constituted authorities, if not out-numbered, are out-witted.

The problem of criminality grows more and more grave in this country.

Municipal government ought to be something more than a shield to the lawless, and courts are too often permitted to be the playthings of crooks.

Domestic cats, abandoned by summer tourists in Minnesota are said to have reverted to wildness in great numbers.

It is singular that human beings should have in them the peculiar streak of brutality and meanness that would make such a condition possible.

The status of Orientals who were made citizens because of their service to this country in the war is about to be tested. An effort is made to deprive them of their citizenship. This would place Uncle Sam in the far from enviable role of "Injun-giver."

A man who is good enough to fight for a country is good enough to be a citizen of that country.

If this is not the case it is a presumption reaching close to the pitch of insolence, to ask him to fight.

Borah threatens to throw a monkey-wrench into the works.

Such an instrument seems particularly fitted to his hand.

When in the industrial field similar tactics are pursued, the offender is arrested as a syndicalist and sent to the penitentiary.

An individual stands in the senate hurling monkey wrenches into a far more delicate and vital mechanism than is found in the realm of manufacture. Nobody arrests him, and doubtless he regards himself as a statesman.

Much discussion has ensued over the suggestion of a Denver judge that a certain woman would be wise to cease having babies. The suggestion was evoked by the fact that she already had five, and that it was impossible for her to give them proper care in any respect. The little ones had no chance of adequate nourishment, of sanitary surroundings, of decent clothes, or of education. The outlook for each of them was a life mentally and physically stunted.

One may have observed on the street recently a woman wheeling a baby. Another infant clung to the go-cart, a third to the mother's skirts. Even a casual glance revealed a prospective episode of family importance.

Not one in the lot, mother or youngsters, looked as though contact with a square meal had come within the experience of such existence as had been vouchsafed.

If Denver is conscious of a problem, it certainly has no monopoly on that problem.

Washington advised against entangling alliances.

Nothing ever said by him could bring under condemnation an alliance made for the purpose of avoiding entanglements.

Before attacking the United States, as Brisbane has planned to have them do, France and Japan must convince England that such a course would be proper.

France might be constrained through the circumstance of owing this country money, and the certainty that war would increase this debt.

By the way, why does so brilliant a man as Brisbane consent to play the Fool in the Hearst court? He doesn't need the money, and the role must be unspeakably humiliating.

Borah objects that the conference has taken no action in relation to poison gas. The conference, however, has not adjourned yet.

But were poison gas eliminated from the senate as well as from war, Borah would be hard-pressed for a vehicle wherewith to diffuse his wares.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

There is no answer to this story. That is, there is no printed answer. It is a bit of tough, gristly moral to be chewed on for the sharpening of the teeth of one's character. My friend Joe told it.

"I owed old Heggesheimer seventy-four dollars and forty cents," said he. "Old Heggesheimer used to run a cafe down in my part of town, you know, and after a great deal of trouble I secured the privilege of signing my meal checks. At the end of each month I paid up, no matter what other calls there might be on me. By that means I made sure of one month's eats."

One Saturday afternoon in summer old Heggesheimer's restaurant burned up. It was such a total and incomprehensible loss that the insurance companies refused to pay. They did not even discuss the matter with old Heggesheimer. Their detectives merely looked over the ground and amassed a terrible set of facts and then they sent for old Heggesheimer.

"We won't pay," said the insurance companies, "for these reasons, and what are you going to do about it?"

The case was so complete against old Heggesheimer, says my friend Joe, that he did not even bring suit. He just went around moaning about how rich folks treat poor folks. But one day he met my friend Joe and pulled a nice, new red-covered memorandum book out of his pocket. It was all filled with names and amounts.

"You owe me," said old Heggesheimer, "the sum of seventy-four dollars and forty cents, and I wish you'd pay, because I am a ruined man, and the insurance companies say they will send me to the penitentiaries if I open my head at them."

"Do I owe you that much?" asked my friend Joe. "Well, I'll tell you. Produce the checks I signed and I'll pay."

Old Heggesheimer couldn't, of course, for if he did—granting that he had them—that would be pretty good evidence for the insurance companies. So my friend Joe never did pay. The question is:

Did he do wrong or right?

Is the answer yes?

Social Notes

THURSDAY CLUB
AT MRS. HARTZELL'S

Members of the Thursday Afternoon Club of this city, which has experienced a great revival within the past few months and now has a membership approaching one hundred, enjoyed a delightful program and social afternoon Thursday at the studio of Mrs. Hartzell on Brand and Laurel, where they were welcomed by their hostess, the officers of the club and the chairman of the program committee, Mrs. Annie Bancroft.

It was an afternoon of song in which the program was given by four young women who call themselves the Strolling Musicians, viz. Misses Charlotte Ewing, Marie Seyler, Marie Haller, and the pianist, Miss Mellick. Their numbers were:

"Robin, Robin, Sing Me a Song" (Spross), "Sing, Smile, Slumber" (Gounod) and a lullaby, "Pirate Dreams" (Huetter) sung by Miss Marie Haller, with delicate sentiment and careful shading.

"Ishtar" (Spross), "The Dancing Lesson" (Oliver) and "Homage" (Riesgo) were sung by Miss Charlotte Ewing, whose dramatic powers gave her work exceptional interest.

"Ho, Mr. Piper," "Sylvia" (Speaks) and "The Birthday" (Woodman) were sung by Miss Marie Seyler, whose interpretations were artistic and dramatic.

At the conclusion of the musical numbers Dr. Jessie Russell was asked to tell the club something about the meetings of the League of the Southwest, which she had attended at Riverside and San Diego. She responded with a brief but excellent summary of the purpose of this league which covers the states of Wyoming, Nevada, Texas, Colorado, New Mexico and California.

The problem of the convention, she explained, was the apportionment and development of the waters of the Colorado river and she recited the struggle between delegates representing the big corporations or private interests, and other delegates seeking federal control or public ownership. She threw many interesting side lights on the contest and amused her hearers by her account of the childish behavior of delegates who, when they failed to win their points flounced out of the convention and went home, something which she had never witnessed in any woman's convention of the many she has attended. The five women delegates, she said, sat tight and watched without getting into the fray.

The subsequent hearing at San Diego proved entirely harmonious and ended in placing the federal government in control of the river to allot its waters to each state interested in proportion of the water and power developed with due regard to the amount the state can use and pay for.

In the speeches pleading for public ownership Glendale was frequently referred to, she said, as a good example of municipal ownership. Mayor Bartlett of Berkeley, president of the League of Municipalities, passing many bouquets to our city.

BURBANK NEWS

MRS. WOODWARD
PASSED WEDNESDAY

Woman With Great Ability, Many Friends Succumb at Home

After a long period of semi-invalidism and several days of critical illness, Mrs. Laura E. Woodward died at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at her home, 250 Olive avenue, at the age of 79. With the death of Mrs. Woodward there passes one of the best known and highly respected citizens of Burbank, and a most remarkable woman. Two years ago she met with the great misfortune of fracturing her hip, and although suffering almost constantly, she retained her remarkable business ability and conducted her affairs with vigor and excellent judgment, supervising the construction of several buildings and otherwise transacting important deals and had others in mind for the near future when she acquired the severe cold that developed a complication of diseases and caused her death.

Not only did Mrs. Woodward possess unusual business talent, but in the more domestic lines of life she was equally gifted. Every kind of needlework fell from her fingers like magic, also beautiful work in oil painting was an engaging pastime with her, and while a few paintings of her own work hung on the walls of her home, her friends were the recipients of most of her best art efforts which fact is also but one example of her generosity and thoughtfulness of others. Altogether, she was an exceptionally talented woman and so kindly a disposition that she leaves a great many friends who will miss their pleasant associations with her. She was a member of the Woman's Club of this city and also a member of the D. A. R. in Glendale.

Mrs. Woodward was born in Westerville, Ohio, in 1842 and was a pioneer in lower California, when railroads were unknown in that country. She came to Southern California 15 years ago and located near Glendale, where she resided for four years, moving from there to this city, where she has since continued to live. She established herself on a chicken ranch at 721 San Fernando boulevard and remained there until a year ago, when she removed to the home on Olive avenue. The deceased is survived by two sons, H. L. Woodward of this city and E. G. Woodward of Kansas City, Mo., who is with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad. Her husband died in 1898, while the family resided in the East. Mrs. E. G. Woodward has been in Burbank some time and cared for the deceased through the last days of her illness.

The funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at funeral parlors in Glendale. The remains will be cremated.

ATROCITIES TOLD
TO SENATORS IN HAITI TODAY

Man Who Is Charged With Serious Offenses Was Suicide

SAN DOMINGO, Dec. 16.—The senate committee which has been investigating alleged marine outrages in Haiti has concluded its hearing here and will sail for home today. It was indicated the committee might recommend withdrawal of American marines from the island.

The last testimony taken dealt largely with the supposed atrocities of Captain Charles Frederick Merkle, who committed suicide while officers were on their way to arrest him for cruel treatment of natives. The witnesses described the water cure used by Merkle, the cutting off of prisoners' ears and the pouring of salt and lime juice on their wounds.

Emilio Surez, guide with Merkle, told of some of these atrocities. His recitation caused Senator Pomerehne, Ohio, member of the committee, to read a statement into the record.

"These occurrences are very distressing," the principal participant has evidently confessed his guilt. His suicide is conclusive proof of his guilt.

Other testimony charged Major Taylor with slashing a prisoner from throat to abdomen. Commenting on this testimony, Pomerehne said:

"This is the first time this has been brought to the attention of authorities and the first time Taylor has been involved. We shall make a vigorous investigation."

PROFESSOR WENT
LITTLE TOO FAR

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—An assistant professor in the chemistry department of Chicago University was dismissed from the faculty today after having been caught peeping through a window in a girls' dormitory at 11 p. m. The professor claimed he was investigating the protection furnished the co-eds from prowlers, when caught.

An official statement issued by President Judson stated that the professor "was one of the most brilliant young men on the staff and had been ill, threatened with a nervous breakdown."

BAPTIST PEOPLE HAVE BIG RALLY

Fine Musical Program Given Last Tuesday Evening

A rally and social of the Baptist people of this city and community was held Tuesday night at the Atherton Villa, and attended by a larger number of those interested especially in the Baptist denomination.

A program consisting largely of music was rendered. An orchestra composed of Burbank talent gave three selections; Mrs. Paul Elliott of Glendale, accompanied by Mrs. Hoskins of Glendale, sang a solo; Mrs. Cunningham of this city and Los Angeles, who is establishing a studio here, gave two piano numbers. Several selections of music were given by children, including Harold Standiford, Sanford Van Loven, Dorris Hutcherson, Carrol Hench, and Judson, Gwendolyn and Eric Bradshaw. Rev. E. E. Ford of the First Baptist church of Glendale made a talk relative to the establishment of a church organization in this city.

For several weeks, many of those of Baptist denomination have met on Sunday afternoon at the Atherton Villa for religious services, which were conducted by ministers from outside cities, and now, it is generally thought by those interested, the time is propitious for the formation of a Baptist church organization. There is no Baptist church in this section between Van Nuys and Glendale, and as there are many of that denomination within this territory, the natural indications are for a prosperous, working church. The matter to be taken up by the convention board which always assists in financing such a new organization. The Atherton Villa is owned by the Southern California Baptist convention and therefore, having a building in advance, the task of establishing a church in this city would not be so great as it is in many other places.

The regular Sunday services, which have been conducted for several weeks, will be discontinued until the first of the year.

Judge Avery Tells of His Work in Burbank Court

The Men's Bible class of the Christian church had a banquet-meeting at the church Tuesday night. J. H. Avery, city judge, and R. W. Colburn, chamber of commerce secretary, were the speakers. Judge Avery spoke of his work in handling the speed fiends and other violators of the road laws. He said that of 25 such ones whom he had before him last week, 18 were foreigners and that in passing sentence he told them that they came over to this country and violated the laws of the country and that now they must "come through," and they "came through."

Mr. Colburn spoke briefly on cooperation, emphasizing the necessity for this element between the church, the home and all organizations in order to attain even the least measure of success.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

Will-Power—and "Nerves"

Myra Noble had almost convinced herself that she had "nerves." She was not quite sure of the term meant. Her mother said she had "nervous strength." Myra required a "good" easily, no in the family seemed to know. Myra's brother John came from school and said, rather sadly, that all Myra needed was sympathy and more work. He said that he for one considered she was simply giving way her nerves and allowing them to dominate her.

Myra wept for an hour and had to lie down and have some of aromatic spirits of ammonia, and her mother was heartened that a son of hers should ask to his sister as John had done to Myra.

Father Agrees With John. John's father was inclined to come at last to an open decision, and said so, bluntly. So the family was divided and most unhappy. Then John, seeking out his sister as she sat apart from the fireless group, sewing, with her eyes and a general air of sorrow about her, said: "It's just like this, mother. I have been encouraged to give up to her nerves. She has never been allowed, or encouraged, to develop any will-power of her own. Will-power must be developed by repeated and systematic exercise, because nerve cells are the cells of this thing we call will-power."

"But I don't see what will-power has to do with insulting your sister," said his mother, coldly. "It has everything to do with it," said John, firmly.

What Will-Power Means. The exercise of will-power has to do with the prevention of nervous ailments. Your strongest person is always the one who is brimful of nerve-energy. Nerve-energy is essential to maintaining the tone of the body, the meaning the nerve supply to the body. Will-power promotes the resistance of the body to the invasion of disease.

"But Myra was never strong," said his mother.

"Nonsense, mother," Myra is simply a victim of circumstance. She is killing her with mistaken kindness. Look at her nerve condition. She hasn't any. She is almost uncannily susceptible to all disagreeable impressions. She jumps if she hears a door bang. She prides herself upon being afraid of thunderstorms. She never misses a chance to dream when she thinks she sees a mouse. She blushes and stammers, and forgets what she starts to say—she doesn't know what the term self-possession means.

John Becomes Emphatic. "She is rapidly developing what

BURCH BELIEVES STATE HAS FAILED

Confident He Would Be Freed if Case Given
Jury Now

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.—With the state's case against Arthur C. Burch complete, the Beverly Glen murder trial stands adjourned until Monday to give the defense time to prepare for final days in court upon which the accused colleague's life depends.

A week ago Burch seemed tightly within a four-square enclosure of circumstantial evidence. Today, with the closing of the state's case and on the eve of the opening of his own, the man accused of killing John Belton Kennedy is confident that he will be acquitted. This optimistic belief on the part of Burch and his attorneys is based on the prosecution's case faltering with anti-climaxes, after state witnesses began to contradict each other.

At the last moment, the prosecution failed to produce either its alleged evidence connecting Burch with the murder and repair of the local newspaper asserted it had obtained from him.

"If this case should go to the jury right now," Burch told the United Press today, "I haven't a doubt in the world but that I would be acquitted."

APPROVES TREATY

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The British parliament today approved the peace treaty with Ireland. Both the house of lords and the house of commons adopted addresses to King George specifically promising to ratify the Irish settlement.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

ORDERS—NO DAYTIME RAMBLING!

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Chatter Squirrel's Treasure. The wonderful hoard of nuts and seeds and dried mushrooms and who knows what other delicious things he always hid away! Certainly it had been enough to keep him fat and gay through the starling winter time. That's what the Woodsfolk meant to find so his poor little widow, with a bullet hole through her poor little leg, could live till spring.

Was she sure to get well? Didn't Dr. Muskrat curing her? Could you ask a better nurse than Silkears Rabbit moving busily about on her soft paddy feet? Or a nicer helper than Ripple Beaver who would hunt the very choicest nuts and crack them with her strong, big teeth? Of course she'd get well. And of course she'd be fed.

The meeting at Dr. Muskrat's pond settled all that. It had been a solemn affair. Yet now ears began to prick and tails began to wag. You just can't help feeling happy if you're really helping some one, no matter how sorry you are that they need it. But Dr. Muskrat's next words made ears and tails droop flat again; it was the hairs and feathers that stood up as cold chills chased up and down each spine.

"No daytime rambling! You know what happened to Chatter!"

"Or until Louie Thomson catches him shooting on his land," remarked Nibble Rabbit. "That walnut grove belongs to him."

"Who does my pond belong to?" asked Chips Beaver anxiously.

"We don't know," kept Tommy Peeler's dog, Watch, keeps an eye on your Deep Woods. He'll warn Tommy quick enough if anything goes wrong in them. He'd look after Louie's, too, only he can't be everywhere at once. Louie should have a good dog of his own."

The twinkly stars were dancing in the water under the doctor's eyes as he said these words. They were as bound to come true as the fortune he read there for Nibble Rabbit long long ago.

But Chips Beaver interrupted in a puzzled way. "Watch knows what happened to Chatter. Can't he tell Louie?"

The Woodsfolk shook their heads. "Watch would have to show him. And Chatter's gone." "But his widow is here!" For once Dr. Muskrat seemed excited. "I must think," said he. "I have a plan. But it's almost morning. No daytime rambling, remember! Run home, furry folk; fly home, Chaik Jay. Tomorrow is another night. Something will happen by then."

FEAR TROUBLE BE STARTED AGAIN

Amazon Army Is Being Sought by Public Officials Now

PITTSBURG, Kan., Dec. 16.—Renewal of violence in the southern Kansas mine fields was feared here today when county officials with state troops in reserve started out to arrest leaders and instigators of the "Amazon army."

This first official offensive against feminine rioters who quickly dispersed when troops arrived yesterday, was made more critical with re-opening of all mines whose workers were mobbed by their jobs by the women marchers.

All mines in the southern Kansas field that were working before the women's red pepper, anti-work crusade, opened today with a great crusade, opened today with a great crusade, opened today with a great crusade.

Attitude of the "ramp" miners and the demobilized "Amazonians" early today continued peaceful, giving the military occupation the atmosphere of mimic warfare.

Crowds gathered around the soldiers with friendly overtures. A few more women who were in the crowds today laughed and flirted with the khaki and sabred troopers.

Dr. and Mrs. Dayton B. Holcomb of 745 North Los Robles avenue, Pasadena, are happy over the arrival of a daughter, born Wednesday morning at the Glendale Research hospital.

THE EVENING STORY

UNDERSTANDING

(Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner)

"Mother, how slow you are getting. I thought you'd be waiting for the new material. While I was shopping I thought I might as well get the goods for the girls' summer clothes, so I—"

Martha Breen had listened to her daughter's cross tones with a growing dismay. With a hurried glance at the pile of sewing on her cot bed, she interrupted: "But, Sadie, I cannot possibly sew so fast. Before I am half finished with one outfit you bustle in with more."

Sadie, wife of a prosperous city man, stared at her mother with an expression of stupefaction. It was an unheard-of thing for Martha to complain of anything. "Why, don't you feel well?" she asked. "Has anything happened?"

Martha's eyes traveled past the shining black hair of Sadie and rested on the waving tops of the poplars just outside the window of the small, top-floor back bedroom that nobody else would use. The room was sparsely furnished—just the odds and ends that did not match; cold in winter and stifling in summer. With no attic, the sun beat down torridly, and there was no cross-current ventilation to stir the stagnant air. Perhaps it was the warmth of the spring air that had awakened old memories to sadden the old lady; possibly it was the fatigue from sewing too steadily for her strength. Any way, Martha, and with her customary honesty of spirit she voiced her feelings candidly. "I am tired of hurrying every day," she said at last. "I am not a machine."

Rosalind, Sadie's ten-year-old daughter, peered at her intently. "I heard daddy say that you were like a faithful old horse. That you worked right along without ever thinking," she paused.

"Rosalind," Sadie's hand descended smartly on the bobbed head, "how dare you speak so impertinently to your grandmother? Doesn't she see all day making pretty frocks for you?"

Rosalind's hand touched the wrinkled hand of Martha in swift compulsion. "I didn't mean to speak of an old lady. Don't you ever think?"

"When I look in memory's mirror I think—think of the past," murmured Martha, her needle-pricked hands lying in an unwitting idleness on the folds of delicate georgette that would presently take form as an evening gown for Sadie.

"Mother, if you waste so much time you won't have that done tonight," urged Sadie, nervously. "I was thinking," went on Martha serenely, "that perhaps I shall save you tonight, for I have nothing to wear except my old black silk that is worn through."

"I didn't know that you cared to come down. Hadn't you better wait until you have time to make up something new for yourself?" Sadie flushed as her mother smiled.

This had been the argument for the three years past whenever Martha had spoken of stepping down among the house guests. Martha was a plain country woman, whereas Sadie and her husband mingled with a young and flippant set, who would, doubtless, astonish the older woman. Then, too, if Martha joined them it meant an evening less at the sewing machine.

"The years pass swiftly, Sadie," said Martha with a touch of sternness that annoyed the other. "Well, I can't stop them. The more I think of it, the more I regret it."

"That reminds me. You said you needed some winter flannels because your room was so badly heated. Seems warm enough to me now. Anyway, Bert says he thinks you ought to sell that old cottage of yours. We have done a lot for you, mother, and it is hardly right to ask him to buy clothes for you. You share our lovely home, and our expenses are pretty heavy. I hated to speak of this, but you seem so discontented and—" she hesitated for a suitable word—"resentful this morning. Just because I brought up some little summer things for the girls you think I am imposing upon you. You always made my clothes, and then you had father to pay your expenses. Now, if you want to buy evening clothes and meet—" the impulsive words halted suddenly, but Martha had heard enough to finish the sentence.

"And meet your friends," she said. "Yes, that would be more fitting. I did for you and I have sewed for the children and you, too, for three years. I have worked harder than I have ever done, and I begin to feel the need of my old friends. I didn't understand that you schemed to keep me upstairs out of sight. I thought the old eyes tried bravely to hide the hurt that lay behind them—that it had just happened so. That each time your guests came I remained up here because there was something unusual to sew for, some gown that must be worn the following day. I—there was a catch in her voice that caused Rosalind to throw chubby arms about her neck—"just didn't understand."

A sooty little sparrow perched on the windowsill. Cries of peddlers drifted up from the dirty alley. A photograph ground out a sentimental song concerning the silver hairs of the mother who had done her all, but Sadie did not speak. Behind her selfish irritation at the loss of time there were queer, poignant stirrings. The nature that had grown chill and self-centered from too much kindness struggled to express itself, but, stifled by the encroaching cobwebs of years, the words of apology did not come easily.

"I don't think," she said lamely, her round black eyes fixed anxiously on the old lady. "If you want to keep your cottage, why—"

"I have been thinking it out," Martha spoke with the old decision that had lain dormant during her years of servitude in another home. "I shall go back tomorrow. I have done the sewing here and I can just as well go out into families around home. I'll get my keep there, just the same, and money, too, so that during the very hot weather and the very cold I shall have plenty to keep me at home. You will always be welcome home with the children. But—here there was an irrepressible thrill of liberty in the aged tones—"I shan't keep on sewing on the children's clothes unless I want to. A body hates to reel she's cooped up in one tiny room with a mountain of sewing on the cot."

The sooty sparrow, exhilarated by the sunshine, flapped his drab wings and flew upward in the sky, which was probably blue above the smoke pall above the city. Martha, watching the curving flight, felt a new life pulse through her veins. She would buy the needed new clothes out of her money that she earned—real money, not a grudging charity flung to her by careless hands. She would go back to the friends who were also growing old and who peopled the dim scenes in her mirror of memories.

"Mother," sobbed Sadie, the ice at last melting, "I am sorry. Don't go."

"It is best," Martha spoke serenely. Her problem was solved. "I'm going to have Rosalind spend the summer with me. We'll have a garden and some chickens."

Fashions for Americans

The suit with matching cape is popular both in sports and dressy models, coats that have attached capes continue to be featured, and the dress that has its own cape is one of the season's favorites. In fact, this type of costume has been so much liked for fall and winter that some of the designers are offering it again for spring. The novelty fabrics featured in the spring garments making the cape and dress outfit seem new, although there is little radical change in the actual style line of those so far developed. Certainly for southern resort wear the dress with cape to match will be popular, and southern resort apparel is usually a forerunner of what will be shown for general wear in the very early spring.

The outfit illustrated features a rather straight line dress and full-length matching cape made of a dark red velvet, both dress and cape being trimmed with krumm fur. A small toque of the fur completes the outfit. The cape is lined with black and a touch of black appears in the trimming of the dress.

A smart cape and dress outfit of the sports type made of wool plaid shows a skirt with slip-over sleeveless jacket reaching about to the hips. The long cape of plaid is lined with plain color silk matching the little shirt or blouse worn underneath the jacket.

The outstanding feature of spring dresses so far shown is the leading to a low waist line, and in suits there is an effort on foot to popularize a coat of definitely fitted type. This effort has been made regularly each season, but has not registered favorably for a long time. That it may meet with better success for spring is predicted on account of the fact that skirts are to be much longer than American women have generally accepted this winter, and with the long skirt, it is argued, a defined waist line and more fitted effects generally will be approved.

Dress With Matching Cape Is Practical and Smart

In line with this theory are the peg top separate skirts now being brought out.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

JOHN ADAMS DAY.

He was born in Texas, Dec. 30, 1883, and is survived by a widow and two children. The service will be conducted by officers of the Masonic Lodge of this city; deceased having been a member of the Lompoc Lodge. Interment will take place in Grand View cemetery.

MRS. ISABELLA MASON.

The passing of Mrs. Isabella Mason, wife of Samuel Mason, Thursday night at their home in the Mason apartments, 204 1/2 East Chestnut street, comes with a shock to a large circle of friends who like the Masons, were pioneers of Glendale. While Mrs. Mason has been in ill health for several years, she had been well enough to go out into the street occasionally and the majority of her friends were unprepared for the sad news. She was 63 years of age and was a native of England. With her husband she had crossed the water to America, her home in New York City when they had a family of four children. From that season they came to Glendale, where the purchased quite a block of property on what is now Chestnut street, where they have resided for about fifteen years.

Four sons and three daughters are mourning the loss of their mother. James Mason of San Francisco, William Mason of Alameda, Samuel and George Mason and Mrs. Christina Papps of Yonkers, N. Y., and Mrs. Fred Roberts and Mrs. Gladys Dereamer who have their homes in the Mason apartments, this city.

The date of the funeral services which will be in charge of the L. C. Sovereign company, have not been announced.

ELLEN M. COOK.

Funeral services for Ellen M. Cook, who passed away at midnight, at Hermosa Beach, at the age of 82, will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church with interment in Forest Lawn. Deceased resided for a number of years in this city on West Harvard street. Her nearest surviving relatives are nieces.

Mrs. James Horne, better known as Cleo Ridgeley of 1445 Valley View road, is now playing the part of the widow in one of Constance Binney's new pictures.

SUNRISE PARTY FOR JAMES W. HORNE A very pleasant surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. James W. Horne of 1445 Valley View road on Wednesday evening when a party of relatives and friends came in and surprised them in honor of Mr. Horne's 40th birthday anniversary, taking their dinner with them. The guests, who were all in costume, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Dobson, 809 Melrose avenue about 6:30 o'clock and from there motored to the Horne residence. They had just taken possession of the place when Mr. and Mrs. Horne arrived home from their work at a moving picture studio, where Mr. Horne is directing Douglas McLean in "The Hottentot" and Mrs. Horne, who is better known as Cleo Ridgely, is featured with Constance Binney.

The surprise was certainly a complete one and after a delicious dinner had been served, a very enjoyable evening was spent in dancing and games, after which refreshments were served. Each guest had been asked to bring a small comic gift not to cost over 25 cents and a piece of poetry to go with it, written by the donor, all of which proved very clever. Mrs. A. T. Dobson, mother of Mr. Horne, presented him with a Christmas candle to which had been attached the following original verse:

"May this candle burn for forty more years To light you on your way, To bring you luck and happiness, On this, your natal day.

"The different guests and their characteristic costumes were: Lander Stevens as Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde; Mrs. George Stevens, as a Russian countess; Mrs. A. T. Dobson as "Ye Little Old English Lady"; Mr. Dobson as a hobnob; Mrs. Charles Carrere as Sirpins; Sal. Charles Carrere, as Happy Hooligan; Miss Elizabeth Plummer as a country hick, George Stevens, Jr., as a duke; Harry Cooper as a country lawyer; Mrs. Harry Cooper as Sunbonnet Sue; Miss Etta Condon as a country boob; Jack Stevens, Jr., as a studio director; Mrs. Alice Hollister as an Italian immigrant; George Hollister as a country hawk.

The affair certainly proved to be a clever one and Mr. Horne received many beautiful gifts from his family and friends.

COLUMBUS P. T. A. INTERESTING MEET The regular meeting of the Columbus avenue P. T. A. was held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at the school. The meeting was opened by a salute to the flag and singing of America. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved. Any other business was dispensed with and the afternoon was given over to a very interesting program, gotten up by the teachers and pupils in their rooms.

The kindergarten gave a French doll song with French dolls, the first grade sang a Christmas stocking song, the second, "A Mother Goose Christmas." The third grade was represented by an original composition read by Evelyn Goodale and Evelyn Fuller, accompanied by Mrs. Fuller, represented the fourth grade.

The fifth grade was represented by piano solos by Nariisse Truitt and Charles Hirt. Twelve children from the fifth and sixth grade sang "Silent Night." A little play, "The Story of the Christmas Tree" was given by several members of the sixth grade and each was dressed as a small pine tree. The ungraded room represented Christmas in many lands and were dressed in the native costumes. At the close of the meeting refreshments of tea and cake were served in the cafeteria.

MISS EVA DANIELS TO DIRECT NEW PLAY "The Women of Dolegion Organize" is the title of a skit written and directed by Miss Eva Daniels, which will be presented by members of the parliamentary law section, of which Mrs. Harry Greenwalt is curator, before the Tuesday afternoon club December 20, at 2:30 p. m.

The cast will include Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, Mrs. J. T. Crampton, Mrs. C. A. Brandstater, Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, Mrs. Helen B. Hoopes, Mrs. C. A. Perry, Mrs. W. H. Verity, Mrs. W. L. Andrews, Mrs. C. J. Newcomb, Mrs. B. L. Cline, Miss Dorothy Morton and Miss Eva Daniels. Artists who will appear in the course of the program are: Mrs. Helen Graham Cole, soloist; Doris Packer, reader, and Vern Isom with his famous out-of-viola. The accompanists will be Mrs. John Wright and Miss Gertrude Champlain.

STUDENT CLASS ENTERTAINMENT Saturday evening, December 17, pupils in class of Miss Dorothy Wright, who has the department of oriental and classic dancing in the Dramatic Art student establishment by Mrs. Evelyn M. S. Labadie at Cedar and Broadway, will be seen in an interesting program which will mark the close of the term. It will include: "Indian Searching for his Enemy" (pantomime) Margaret Schuck. "The Pipes of Pan," Edith McIntyre. "The Flower Girl" (pantomime) Portia Chambers. Egyptian dance by the class. "The Three Wise Men" (pantomime) Edith McIntyre. "Fairy in a Field of Poppies," Ardith Kettner. "Echo and Narcissus," Edith McIntyre and Margaret Schuck. "A Shepherd," Margaret Schuck. "Scarf Dance," Portia Chambers. "Grecian Priestess," Edith Addison. "Moonbeams," Margaret Schuck. The recital will begin at 7 p. m. and the public is invited to see this demonstration of the excellent work that is being done by this school.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loose of Long Beach, who have been the guests for a few days of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Carrer, 313 West Garfield avenue, left this morning for their home.

CHATS WITH MARTHA ALICIA

GIFTS OF INFINITE UTILITY. Both to the housewife and her husband, are to be found in abundance at NEALE AND GREGG'S HARDWARE STORE, 107 North Brand Blvd. Today I found a most interesting display of electric irons, casseroles, vases, pretty little colored flower bowls, winsome oriental incense burners—even to clocks—all delightful gifts for the home-maker! Then, for hubby, there are a number of appropriate gifts such as razors, thermos bottles, for his car, good-looking ash trays and cigar holders for his desk, flashlights and the like—things that men take great pride in.

But for the kiddies—there's where you'll find a wonderful selection at Neale and Gregg's! There are cute little toy automobiles—all gaily painted in red, real "Injun" canoes for the little fellow, tricycles, moving picture machines, coasters, wagons, skates, aeroplanes, toy horses, baseball bats, balls, and tin rackets—everything to make this Christmas a happy one for the youngsters. And games! Oh, my, there are just more fascinating games to keep the kiddies busy during the long winter evenings. And for the presents you're sending away you can buy seals, boxes, and attractive greeting cards at Neale and Gregg's. The same standard of low prices which has always characterized their store is one of the features of their Christmas stock!

TOMATO SAUCE Half can of tomatoes, one teaspoonful sugar, eight peppercorns, one cupful of brown stock, one bay leaf, one-half teaspoonful salt, four tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Cook tomatoes about 20 minutes with sugar, peppercorns, bay leaf and salt and pepper; rub through a strainer and add the stock. Brown the butter, add flour and when well browned gradually add the liquor.

INDEED SHE'LL SIMPLY LOVE any of the handsome gifts you might select for her at ARTHUR H. DIBBERN'S, 121 North Brand Blvd. If she's a winsome Miss of 1921 the lovely little Dorines (for her powder), unique purse mirrors, handsome mesh bags, or the good-looking coin cases—all obtainable in either gold or silver, will each in turn captivate and win her heart! Or, for the matron or newly wed graceful tea balls, distinctive napkin rings, or any one of a large selection of silver pieces is just the gift to convey your sincere good wishes. Then, for the young man of today, I'd suggest a handsome cigarette case in either gold or silver, a distinctive silver match box, or even a good looking cigarette holder—and have it correctly monogrammed. But if he's an Elk, Mr. Dibern has just the present—one for him alone, a small gold case with mounted Elks head for his membership card!

Many of the new belts look as if they had come from a blacksmith's shop with all sorts of queer things that could be called tools dangling from them.

MOST EVERYTHING IN THE LINE of appropriate and acceptable gifts for Milady may be selected at SHERROD'S SPECIALTY SHOP—207 East Broadway. And particularly appealing to the fair sex is their stock of fine silk hose and dainty undergarments! At prices you can easily afford to pay you may buy the loveliest of sheer silk hose, some with lace clocks or insets, some handsomely embroidered, or again, others in the popular novelty designs! Their underwear department embraces a riot of lovely pastel shades in both georgette and crepe de chine combinations, teddies, camisoles, and gowns.

DRAWN BUTTER SAUCE Mix together in a small saucepan one tablespoon of butter, the same quantity of flour and a little salt. Add one-half pint of hot water and place saucepan in a large pan of hot water until required. Pour over the fish, which also may be sprinkled with chopped parsley and the yolk of a hard-boiled egg.

NO MATTER HOW STRENUOUS or trying your day may have been—till all be forgotten when you drop in at the QUALITY DOUGHNUT SHOPPE, for a cup of wonderful coffee and some of those delicious homemade doughnuts. You know, Quality Doughnuts are virtually "as pure as gold"—and if you were to ask me I would tell you that they simply melt in your mouth. The Doughnut Shoppe is at 104 West California Ave.—phone Glendale 220-J.

YES, THAT'S JUST THE THING! Have your home redecorated as your Christmas gift to your wife! Could there be a more appropriate one? Naturally you'll enter into the spirit of the Yuletide when the store windows—many of them "snow" filled—are proudly flaunting their gayly ornamented trees surrounded by happy holiday remembrances. Really, it is an inspiration to just browse around and watch the joyous throngs make their selections and purchases. For you, too, will be simply amazed, as have I many times today, at the remarkably low figures at which the Glendale merchants have marked their goods! Tonight, in these columns, I have brought you word of some of the lovely suggestions which the shops are showing—but oh! there are so many more than I can ever hope to tell you of—and of such surprising beauty that words actually fail me! Really, they must be to be appreciated! And, if you have been unable to find some certain article you most desire—I will be more than glad to aid you in your quest if you will just drop me a note!

When baking cakes the oven should be allowed to cool a little after the cake has browned. If a fierce heat be kept up the outside will be burned and the cake will be spoiled.

LOVE TO SHOP AT THE GLENDALE DRY GOODS STORE, 115 West Broadway—and I know you will, too! Today I enjoyed looking around at their lovely little French novelties, book ends, ostrich feather pens and writing sets in a riot of colors, blotter sets, inkwells, in fact, everything imaginable for Milady's desk! Then, there are dainty flower bedecked organdie aprons, silk scarfs, and a nice line of pretty neckwear. For baby, too, you will find dolls, rattles, balls, and all the "nifty" little toys that make baby's life worth living! Hostery, in a number of attractive designs, daintily boxed for the holidays, is another popular item at the Glendale Dry Goods Store—for hose, for men and women, is always an appreciated gift.

Ostrich plumes more than a yard long trailing below the waistline are seen on some Paris hats.

TOMATOES EN CASSEROLE If tomatoes are too small to stew, one can scald and peel them and place in a baking dish with layers of meat, tomato sauce and bread alternating. Canned tomatoes may be used instead of fresh. Have bread on top and dot with bits of butter. A pimiento or chopped green pepper is a fine addition. Soup meat may be used. A little cold boiled rice or cooked cereal may be used in place of all bread.

"WHEN THE DAY IS DONE" and you have come home all "fagged out" after a busy time at the office or shopping, it's BOOTH'S SPECIAL BLEND COFFEE that will put you on your feet again! You see, Mr. Booth blends all his own teas and coffees—and that's why they're so pure and fresh. Why, do you know, I consider Booth's coffee a tonic for there is nothing I know that will so quickly give one a new lease on life. Then, too, Booth's coffee is truly an economy, for it always pays in the long run to buy the best, and of this I'm sure, "there's none better than Booth's!" Stop in at the store, 318 East Broadway, and take home a pound next time you are down town.

To fry fish properly they should be put into boiling hot fat.

FOR EXPERT CLEANING and pressing—work of the highest caliber, send your clothes to the BRAND CLEANERS, 217 South Brand Blvd. Their workmanship is excellent—although their prices are really quite reasonable!

CORN FRITTERS One can corn, two eggs, one cup milk, a little salt, two teaspoons sugar, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder and flour enough to make a thin dough. Don't have dough too thick. This is also good with boiled rice in place of corn.

COULD THERE BE A MORE APPROPRIATE or delightful Yuletide remembrance than your own photograph artistically colored in oil? GLENN R. DOLBERG, of 206½ West Broadway is able to take pictures for Christmas delivery right up to December 19th—due to the fact that he has a most complete and up-to-date equipment for finishing. Personality and individuality is the keynote of Dolberg's wonderful photographs!

"CHRISTMAS IS HERE" seems to be the thought prevalent first, last and always throughout the shops! And who could help but enter into the spirit of the Yuletide when the store windows—many of them "snow" filled—are proudly flaunting their gayly ornamented trees surrounded by happy holiday remembrances. Really, it is an inspiration to just browse around and watch the joyous throngs make their selections and purchases. For you, too, will be simply amazed, as have I many times today, at the remarkably low figures at which the Glendale merchants have marked their goods! FOR THE HUNDRED-AND-ONE little gifts and remembrances which you must buy at the last minute—go to the GLENDALE PHARMACY, 638 East Broadway. They have a wonderful stock of beautiful silk and ribbon trimmed powder puffs—the good looking Pyralin Ivory, lovely little manicure sets, and Buddy Blank Books, as well as safety razors, and other suggestions for men. Then, too, you will find the most attractive California Christmas cards, seals, Christmas bells, candles and paper decorations. All are most, reasonably priced!

Children should not be given money to buy their own fruit from hucksters or stands unless there are facilities at school for washing it.

ALWAYS, AT THE MISSION STORE, 107 West Broadway, some special line is being closed and another taking its place! This week a varied line of high class boxed candies—Bishop Bros. well known goods—are being introduced at prices quite in keeping with the policy of this popular new store. They also have the celebrated Bishop's Candied Fruits—at only 50c the box, and with postage prepaid anywhere in the United States or Canada!

BANANA-ORANGE DESSERT Take equal parts of bananas and oranges and after arranging them in a dish, pour over them a soft custard made of the yolks of four eggs, one-half cup of sugar and a pint of milk. Let the custard get cold before it is put on, beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, and after dropping into boiling milk long enough to set, lay it over the top of the dish.

WHEN EVERYTHING ON the table is of the best—you will, of course, want to serve the famous WHITE ROSE SPRING WATER at Christmas dinner. Call Glendale 217—THE INDEPENDENT ICE CO., and order a bottle today. It's always pure and fresh.

A frame on which to allow cakes to cool, after baking, can be made from mosquito netting nailed on to a square made from four pieces of wood.

One or two asbestos mats should be kept in every kitchen to place under saucepans on the fire, so as to prevent their contents cooking too fast.

All-black costumes continue to be extremely popular.

IMAGINE MY SURPRISE, when I stopped in at THE FASHION SHOPPE, 405 South Brand Blvd., to price the most stunning, hand embroidered canton crepe dress I've seen this season, and Mme. Geraldine quoted "14.75!" I was simply dumfounded! The material is wonderful—and the lines are stunning. It is one of the very latest New York models. They also have other, equally as beautiful models from $13.50 up, while the tricotines, of the very latest mode and exquisitely trimmed, are from $14.75 up! You'll do well to stop in at the Fashion Shoppe and look over their wonderful stock before you buy! Mme. Geraldine will design gowns for you, too, if she hasn't anything in stock for you!

Horseshoe butter is good on graham bread sandwiches.

A MOST DELIGHTFUL SPOT to do one's Christmas shopping is THE SHOP UNIQUE, at 125 West Broadway! They have a most artistic line of abalone gifts—tattoo sets, desk sets, manicure sets, napkin rings, pins, combination paper cutters and book marks—even to salt shakers! And, if you're sending a gift East—especially where there are children, a large highly polished abalone shell, showing both the original and the finished product, is ideal! Their prices on these novelties range from 25c, 35c and 50c up. Then, too, there are distinctively arranged hand painted greeting cards with envelopes to match. And the dearest of hand painted table mats in a wide range of colors—to match most any dinner set! Stop in at The Shop Unique—for I know you'll enjoy looking over their line of distinctive and individual gifts!

A very delicious dish is creamed oysters on omelet.

IT IS A MARVEL to me the way Miss Bedell of the BEDELL FUR SHOP, 1125 North Louise street, makes those stunning capes, scarfs and chokers from old fur coats and muffs! She makes a specialty of designing pieces to express one's personality, and I have found that her's are distinctive creations that portray their wearers' character and at the same time enhancing every charm and beauty! Miss Bedell also has stunning models already made for sale at exceptionally low prices. Then, too, she will secure the skins and make garments to order for you. Call her at Glendale 429-J.

Fagoting is one of the trimmings which has been introduced on some pretty night dresses.

A HOME FOR CHRISTMAS! She'll surely appreciate that! VANDENHOFF, of 205 North Brand Blvd., has a perfect gem of a four room bungalow. It's practically new, ideally situated on a good sized lot, close to the cars—just the sort of home you'd want. The price, though, is only $3800—with most convenient terms, $22.00 and interest monthly, and $1000 first payment. Call Mr. Vandenhoff and ask to see it today!

Do not let the direct rays of the sun shine on your mirror. It has a bad effect on the metallic coating of the glass.

LOVELY WOMEN APPRECIATE beautiful, handmade undergarments! At the BROOKS SHOPPE, 123 North Brand Blvd., you may have the crepe de chine, satin or georgette camisoles and combinations which you're making attractively hemstitched or picot edged. It's just the finishing touch to lend individuality and daintiness to the plainest of garments. They also make lovely luncheon sets, and do fancy work of all well, as well as pleating and button making!

Big mesh filet veil is especially good and when combined with the chenille and chintilly lace border is decidedly chic.

NEVER YET WAS WOMAN born who didn't have a particular weakness for lovely dishes. And here's a hint! Sh! At the GLENDALE FURNITURE STORE, 606-608 East Broadway, I found just the dinner set for you! There are 48 pieces—a beautiful and unusual design—most attractively shaped and daintily decorated with graceful peacocks! But you will be simply amazed at the price—its very reasonableness seems almost incredible—only $10.50 complete!

BROWN PARSLEY SAUCE Two tablespoons shortening, two tablespoons flour, one sup milk or fish stock, one teaspoon lemon juice, two tablespoons chopped parsley, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Melt the shortening, add flour and stir constantly until well browned. Pour on the hot liquid.

IT'S SO HARD to buy gifts for a man, isn't it? But, if you will just drop in at PUSS'N BOOTS, 211½ South Brand Blvd., and select a box of their fine cigars he will surely be pleased! Puss'n Boots' pure candies are always an acceptable gift, too!

For hatpins—the concentric circles are popular, while glass jewels in color matching the hat, are seen.

Beaded girdles are being used for the simplest cloth dresses as well as for the most formal evening gowns.

PEACE ON PACIFIC IS BOUND TO COME

Japanese Prime Minister
Is One Who Will Stand
Up for Right

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)

Liberal interpretation by Japan of the four power Pacific agreement is assured by Viscount Takahashi's statement to the United Press. The Japanese premier is opposed to a militaristic policy and operation with the other powers can be accepted as a step toward democracy in the Far East. The entire spirit of the quadrilateral treaty depends the voluntary conduct of the statesmen of the four nations. The treaty is unprecedented in its vagueness. In this respect it is the antithesis of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which it supercedes.

With so flimsy a document to serve as the charter of open diplomacy in the Pacific success or failure will depend entirely upon the honesty of these who have to apply the treaty.

Takahashi, with his sensitive financial intuitions, has long opposed terrorizing China by Japan's militarists. He can be confidently expected now to apply the same principle to Japan's new Pacific partnership. With that as a guide-

THIS COW KNEW SOFT PLACE IN FAMILY YARD

LA GRANDE, Ore., Dec. 16.—Mrs. Joe Thompson has a cow which believes all the comforts of home should be extended to the family milk producer. Mrs. Thompson left a large pile of freshly ironed clothes in the dining room and retired upstairs to refresh herself after her ironing bout. Hearing a noise downstairs, she investigated and discovered the cow had penetrated into the family's domain, had dumped the clean clothes down in a neat nest effect, and was reposing hereon, placidly chewing the cud of reflection.

A sculling match was arranged between an Englishman and an Irishman. The Englishman won with ease, and at no time was he in danger of defeat. Moreover, in a spirit of fun and bravado, he stopped two or three times in his course, bidding the Irishman in his rear to hurry up. After the race the Irishman came in for a good deal of chaff in view of the overwhelming defeat he had suffered. But he merely shrugged his shoulders. "Faith," he said, "if I had had the long rests that he took I could have beaten him easily."

ing spirit of the quadruple alliance, peace in the Pacific will be assured.

Her interests are athletic and artistic; she is a fine tennis player and croquet player, having frequently distinguished herself in tournaments. She is also a talented pianist. During the war she served for three years in the Ministry of Munitions, where she achieved the distinction of being the first woman to attain the rank of Section Officer. She will shortly leave England with her husband for a tour of the United States.

SCHOOL GIRLS AT THORNYCROFT

The Sixty-first street school is still continuing its good work for the boys at Thornycroft. On Thursday afternoon, five automobile loads of little girls came out to the hospital and brought a box of candy for every boy with his name on it. Then the little girls' glee club sang and some of them danced and gave a very nice entertainment for the boys. Mrs. Margaret Smith is principal of this school, and is a niece of Mrs. Samuel Dick of 309 North Louise street.

If women should go back to hoop skirts there would be a howling immorality of the race.

TEST RIGHT TO POWDER NOSES

Case Comes Up for Decision in Arkansas Court Room

KNOBEL, Ark., Dec. 16.—Do school girls have a legal right to use face powder? That question is expected to be decided here today, when Circuit Court Judge Marion Putrell rules on a writ of mandamus brought against the board of education of this little town of 500 population by pretty Miss Pearl Pugsley, 18.

Miss Pugsley was dismissed from the local high school by Principal N. E. Hicks because she used powder and is seeking restoration of her rights. Some time ago the board decreed:

"Peekaboo waists, transparent hosiery, the use of lip sticks, paint and all cosmetics by students are prohibited."

"I had no face powder at home and used ordinary talcum as a substitute," Miss Pugsley said. "Prof. Hicks told me to wash it off if I wanted to remain in school. I believe the order was an invasion of my rights and therefore refused to comply with Hicks' wishes."

Her father started the suit, asking for an injunction to restrain the board from barring her from school. He took suddenly ill and on his death bed insisted that his daughter carry the case to court "if it takes every cent I leave you."

Miss Pugsley stated two other girls were expelled for the same reason.

The mandamus proceedings are directed against B. A. Scott, J. R. McCoy and F. J. Sellmeyer, members of the board of education, who framed the iron-clad rule.

ORANGE MANOR IS SELLING RAPIDLY

Each Lot Has Some Kind of Fruit Tree for New Owner

Lot buying is at its height at Meeker's Orange Manor, located at the intersection of Colorado street and Verdugo road. Forty-two lots were sold in this tract within ten days after it was opened and offered to the public. One reason for this is that every lot has some kind of fruit tree. On some lots there are apricot trees, on others are lemon trees and on others are a number of orange trees. These lots are covered with fruit.

The location of the Meeker's Orange Manor is all that could be desired by the lot owner so far as location, scenery, etc. is concerned. It is an ideal place for the location of the home. This fact is being realized by a majority of those who have already purchased lots in this tract. Some of these folks have already started the construction of one or more houses on their property, while a number of others have in the course of drawing for their future dwellings. The home-seeker is the one who is taking advantage of the generous offer that is being made to them by the promoters of this remarkable subdivision.

Latest reports show that lot buying in this tract continues to be brisk. Easterners as well as local residents are being attracted to this beautiful tract and almost hourly sales are being reported.

M'CORMICK WANTS MARINES TAKEN FROM HAITI

Head of Committee Favors Withdrawal of Soldiers Now

SAN DOMINGO, Dec. 16.—Senator Medill McCormick, chairman of the committee investigating alleged marine outrages in Haiti, today declared he was interested in terminating the marine occupation of the island. McCormick, announcing his attitude, asked several witnesses if they did not believe the marines should be withdrawn.

McCormick also apologized in the name of the American people for outrages alleged to have been committed by Captain Merkle. He said the "occupation," jealous of its reputation, had sent officers to arrest Merkle, but that he had then committed suicide.

Pedro Rivera testified that a peaceful citizen had been taken from his home, a rope placed around his neck and his hands tied. Thus bound he was forced to run five kilometers behind a trotting horse with a marine holding the rope. Rivera also told of another innocent citizen who was bound to a stake and given the water cure by Merkle three times.

Jose Jimenez, son of a former president, testified Captain Crawford of the U. S. S. Prairie threatened in May, 1915, to fire indiscriminately into crowds if a single shot was fired by Dominicans.

WOMAN'S CLUB HAS REGULAR MEET

Votes $10 for La Crescenta Community Xmas Tree

LA CRESCENTA, Dec. 16.—The regular monthly meeting of the La Crescenta Woman's Club was held at the school auditorium Wednesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. F. H. Anderson, presided. The club voted $10 for the community Christmas tree, also the usual Christmas remembrance for the adopted French orphan of the club. Mrs. Howard Reynolds asked the club members to visit the Monte Vista lodge Thursday, December 23, as a number of children will be taken out there for a Christmas outing. Mrs. H. S. Bissell, chairman of the Red Cross drive for renewals, made a most favorable report. The president informed the club that she had just received the deed for the remaining two-thirds of an acre for the clubhouse lot. The Western Improvement Association has now given the La Crescenta Woman's club an entire acre on Los Angeles and Hermosa avenues, on which they expect to build a clubhouse in the near future. Mrs. Charles Turk announced herself and Mr. Turk would give an entertainment on Saturday evening, January 7, at the school auditorium, the proceeds to go to the building fund of the club. After the business meeting the afternoon was devoted to domestic science which was both profitable and enjoyable. Mrs. C. E. Culbertson was in charge of the food. Mrs. F. H. Anderson and Mrs. A. Aiken were joint hostesses. Mrs. S. B. Young and Mrs. J. Erwin presided over the punch bowl.

A dance will be given at the school auditorium Saturday evening, December 17, by the La Crescenta Woman's club to its members and friends. Fletcher's orchestra of Pasadena will furnish the music.

RADCLIFFE CO. IS IN CHARGE TRACT

U. S. Compression Inner Tube Site Is Put on Market

More than half of the tract held by the United States Compression Inner Tube company, was placed on the market today as a subdivision and the Radcliffe Realty company of Burbank has exclusive sales management of the tract.

The entire real estate holdings of the Inner Tube company consists of 12 acres. About four of these they will retain for the development of their industry which acreage is considered sufficient for the erection of five units of their enterprise. The remaining tract will be improved and laid out in lots and as the ground fronts on San Fernando boulevard, part of them will be business lots. Of these, there are 29 while there are 28 residence lots.

This tract, bounded by San Fernando boulevard, the Southern Pacific tracks and Laurel street on the west and Thompson street on the east when that street is opened, is well located for both business and home sites and with the settlement of outlying districts, the Radcliffe company have prospects of disposing of the property very quickly.

COULD YOU SQUEEZE INTO THIS DRESS?

Here is Miss M. Sinclair, said to have the smallest waist of any woman in London, wearing a dress of the Elizabethan period. The committee in charge of the recent Devonshire House matinee, in London, tried to find a woman who could wear a dress of the Medici period, when the thirteen-inch waist was the standard. Many small-waisted women responded, but none could squeeze into the gown. Miss Sinclair was closest to the requirements. Her waist measurement is fourteen and one-half inches.

Mrs. Blikens met Mary Smith, whom she had recommended to a neighbor for a situation. "How are you getting on at your new place?" asked Mrs. Blikens. "Very well, thank you," was the reply.

"I'm glad to hear it," remarked Mrs. Blikens. "Your employer is very kind, and you can't do too much for her." "I don't mean to, ma'am," replied Mary.

CERRITOS GIRLS WON VOLLEY GAME

Intermediate Gave Them
Hard Battle Thursday Afternoon

The fifth and deciding contest in a series of volley ball games between Cerritos and Intermediate teams was played Thursday afternoon on Cerritos field and proved an exciting event. Both organizations developed splendid team work and too much praise cannot be given to their directors, Mrs. Irene McReynolds trained the Cerritos team, while Miss Gladys Sharpe directed the work of the Intermediates.

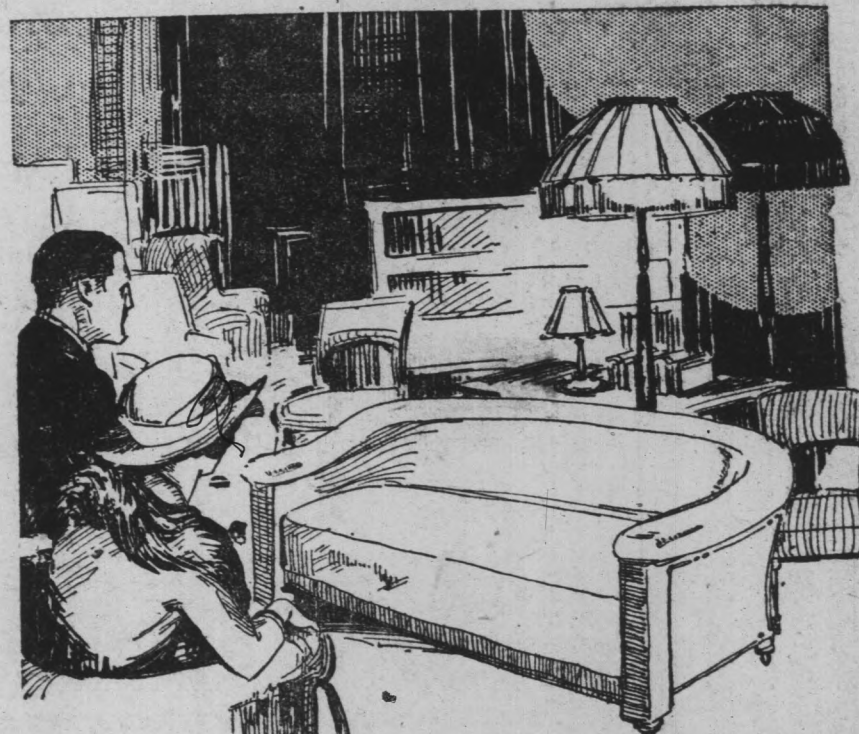

Excitement rang high and mothers on their way to club and other meetings stopped to watch the battle and cheer the victors. The contest was played in thirds, or three games. The score of the first third was 15 to 10 in favor of Cerritos. The record of the second game was 15 to 5 in favor of Intermediate. In the last third the two teams ran neck and neck until a brilliant play by Cerritos girls gave the championship to that team by the narrow margin of one point, the total score being 15 to 14 in favor of Cerritos. The pennant therefore went to the players of the southern school although in the total score of points Intermediate had 39 and Cerritos 35.

Since "the game's the thing" however, all parties came through with honor and each team feels it had a foe worthy of its best effort.

The girls composing the team which won the championship were Harriet Light, captain; Pearl Mentzer, Louise Kopp, Mary Jane La Point, Julia Steelman, Edna Strong, Martha Hartzell, Olive Gulek, Ruth Wilson, Marjorie Gilhulle, Florence McCoolery.

Girls in the Intermediate team were Barbara Ktranz, captain; Dorothy Campbell, Consuelo Mirano, Dorothy Humans, Dorothy Hertzog, Bernice Collins, Helen Home, Bertha Koche, Mabel Horner, and Florence Knight.

GERMAN TOYS ON MARKETS AGAIN

Eighty-eight Millions of American Toys Last Year Drop Now

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 16.—During the Christmas season the American public will buy fewer toys made in America as during the year of 1919, according to Harry C. Ives, President of the Toy Manufacturers Association of America.

In 1919 more than $88,000,000 worth of American toys were sold at wholesale, but this year German-made toys will be on the market, Ives stated. He pointed out that the German-made doll was especially popular to the American buyers.

"The miniature sailing yacht is to be the chief summer toy of the American youth in the near future," Ives continued. "Interest in this sport has progressed far in sporting circles, partly because the challenge from Great Britain to America for a race under yachting rules, but with miniature boats, has been accepted and will probably be run off on Long Island Sound next summer."

Ives declared that young men are already seeking small yachts, mechanically steered, from one foot to five feet in length.

Educational toys will be the best sellers in stores for the children this Christmas, Ives stated. The educational toys inspire the boy or girl towards higher development of the mind and the American parent is giving more heed to the selection of toys even among the smaller children.

which they call "Can't Keep 'Em Up," which refers to the unmanageable pair of trousers which one of the brothers wears. This is a Pantages act.

Quite as entertaining and very different is the offering of Fox & Ingram, two young men who sing and play the piano in a most pleasing manner. Their songs are new here on the coast and they present them in a most approved fashion.

Herbert Bethew and his company have a refreshing little drama filled with brilliant lines and clever twists of plot which is entitled, "Day Dreams." Success Essentials

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

If you, as a young man striking out for yourself, were to inquire of any veteran leader in business as to the qualities he deemed most essential to the winning of business success, the chances are he would put special emphasis on:

Enthusiasm.
Tactfulness.
Honesty.
Thrift.

These certainly are the qualities most frequently stressed by the eminently successful when asked to give a success-winning formula. And without them, undoubtedly, no high degree of success can be won. Lacking enthusiasm for the work he sets out to do, no young man can apply himself to that work with proper diligence.

He will find it irksome, tedious, fatiguing. The call of pleasure will easily draw him from it. He will give to it little creative thought, little real thought of any kind.

Certainly he will not gladly labor at it many hours daily. Yet this is what every man must do, else content himself with mediocre accomplishment—and with the rewards of mediocrity. All big winners have been willing workers. Overtime has not seemed to them something to be dreaded.

And to enthusiasm must be added tactfulness, if only because the doing of business of any sort is largely a matter of personal contacts. The tactful—which means the polite, the courteous, the genial—find their way smoothed through the personal contacts of their workaday life. The tactless are hampered at every turn.

Necessarily they create antagonisms blocking their advancement, no matter how industrious they may be. So that gradually—and merely because they have been tactless—they lose heart, grow embittered, and perhaps sink to the level of the absolutely unaccomplishing.

But so, for that matter, may sink the tactful, if their tactfulness is mere pretense, lacking a foundation of sincere goodwill and personal integrity.

The insincere, the dishonest—let them be prodigies of politeness, courtesy and geniality—continually dig pitfalls for themselves. Cunning and deceit can give at best only a transient prosperity. Usually they reap a harvest of disaster.

Finally, he who would get on in the world should make it a point to add thrift to the qualities of enthusiasm, tactfulness and honesty.

Thrift not only means a prudent conservation of financial resources. It gives an added incentive to work, it helps to strengthen and stabilize the character, and it means ability to grasp an exceptional opportunity when such an opportunity presents itself.

For lack of thrift many an ardent, tactful, honest worker has been cheated of the success that should have been his. Still worse, lacking thrift the worker, no matter how capable he may be, is foredoomed to an old age of difficulty and discontent.

Look about you and you will appreciate the truth of this. For, all around, you will see old men who should have been prosperous in their declining years, but are poverty oppressed for no other reason than that in their days of earning power they never sensed the value, the necessity of thrift.

SEEDLESS APPLE NOW ON MARKET

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 16.—Having given the world the improved seedless orange in the California navel, Riverside now promises to give to the lovers of fancy fruit the seedless and coreless apple. Three years ago, P. T. Evans, pioneer fruit man here, discovered what he believed to be an apple tree on which was found a seedless and a coreless apple. Buds were taken from the tree and budded to young stock sent here from Oregon. Over 200 of these young trees were distributed but no report has been made on any of them except one on the C. J. Carlson place. Cutting open the apples today, Evans discovered that some of them were seedless and coreless. Expert fruit men were called into conference and they are convinced that the seedless and coreless apple is now a reality rather than a dream.

WALKING COSTUME AND EVENING GOWN LATEST MODELS, DIRECT FROM PARIS

These two photographs show the most advanced styles direct from Paris. At the left is an attractive walking model. The gown is handsomely embroidered in silk and has a metallic girdle. Note the full sleeves now so prevalent, and the small chic toque worn with the costume. The chin band is featured. The simplicity of its lines make evening gowns of silk meteor distinctive. The sole trimming is pearls. The bare back effect is the very latest Paris is showing in decollete.

A school teacher was relating some of her experiences in different schools throughout the country: "I taught school among my own people in the Tennessee mountains for several years after I left college. Funny things happened. Hearing a boy say 'I ain't gwine thar,' I said to him: 'That's no way to speak. Listen, I am not going there; he is not going there; we are not going there; you are not going there; they are not going there. Do you get the idea?' 'Yessum, I gits it all right. They ain't nobody gwine.'"

It's easy to meet expenses these days. You run onto them every time you turn around.

That knocking that an automobilist hears is also opportunity knocking—for some garage man.

MRS. HARDING IS BEST MIXER YET

President's Side Partner
Enjoys Her Many Social Duties

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Mrs. Harding is the best "mixer" who ever presided as mistress of the White House, according to the oldest attaches there. They cannot recall a first lady who was so democratic. Many visitors going through the East Room and other public parts of the White House, have been given an unexpected thrill by the sudden appearance of Mrs. Harding on the scene. She takes great delight in coming downstairs unexpectedly and dropping in on sightseers wandering curiously about. Although they usually recognize her in advance, she always walks up and extending her hand announces that "I am Mrs. Harding and I'm glad to see you here."

She usually asks what State the visitor is from and many times they discover mutual acquaintances. There is nothing formal about these little meetings, and if she is busy, she says so and goes on.

If she has time, often she shows them through other rooms. Despite the heavy drain on her energy, Mrs. Harding thoroughly enjoys her life in the White House. Her only difficulty is in adhering to the rest schedule which Dr. Sawyer insists upon. He calls every morning and watches her closely, because in his years as the Harding family physician, he has learned that Mrs. Harding is too active for her own good, and his hardest job is to get her to take sufficient rest.

Mrs. Harding is fond of motoring and rides about Washington a great deal, much of the time alone. Twice a week she goes out to see Mrs. George B. Christian, Jr., wife of the president's secretary. They were next door neighbors in Marion and Mrs. Harding likes to get away from formalities and talk about the home folks in Marion.

"Soft lights in the home would avoid many divorces," says a lighting expert. A little soft soap, however, is even better.

Remember those quaint old times when a clumsy waltzer used to step on his partner's skirt? He'd have to step some to do that now.

Big Merchants Have New Method to Trap Shoplifters

Holiday Period Reveals Many Crooks Roaming Through Stores to Get Lay of Land for Harvest When Holiday Shopping Starts

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Shoplifters are already making the rounds of the big department stores here in order to get "the lay of the land" in preparation for the annual harvest reaped by the light-fingered gentry during the shopping rush of the holiday season.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of articles are lost annually in this city to shoplifters of both sexes, despite the fact both men and women detectives keep a keen lookout to prevent the depredations of these crooks. Ingenious methods of the best private detective agencies in the city which were called in to aid in apprehending shoplifters have failed to materially reduce the huge amount of loot that annually disappears from the big stores. For each trap set to entangle the wits of these clever thieves contrive a way to circumvent the sleuths.

Holidays Crooks' Harvest Time

Throughout the year there is a considerable amount of shoplifting practiced here, but the golden garnering for these clever law-evaders comes with the Christmas shopping days when the purchasers crowd the big stores, and they can operate under a crush of women buyers. Throngs of shoppers in the aisles also enable pickpockets to operate successfully, and hundreds of women find upon leaving a big store that the roll of bills their pocketbooks contained upon entering the store has mysteriously disappeared.

"They are a wise bunch and they put it over on us no matter how hard we watch them," explained the store detective in one prominent establishment. "Lots of times we find they have a confederate working in the store who helps them get away with stuff. But most of them don't do this as they are fully capable of picking up articles under the very eyes of our salespeople without attracting attention."

Women Fast Workers

"Most of the professional shoplifters are women, and they are the hardest to catch in the act. Three-fourths of the arrests made for shoplifting are of men. And yet we know that the costly articles are all taken by women, but it is difficult to get them with the goods. Women are quicker with their hands than men, and this partly explains their ability to steal the smaller articles. But they also get away with heavy

RED HAIR WAS SIGNAL OF TEMPER

LONDON, Dec. 16.—"The red-haired woman gets them, while the others sniff or go after the henna," Dr. Josiah Oldfield told the Society of Philology. "A woman, to attract a man, must be a little different from the crowd," Dr. Oldfield said. "She must be wicked, distinctly talented or must strike some color note. Of all colors, the shades of copper and red are the most beautifully uncommon."

"Other women, recognizing the advantage of the red-haired woman in the matrimonial market, either obviously disfigure her by calling 'carrots,' or copy her by using a henna dye."

MYSTERY SUICIDE CONGRESSMAN FROM CALIF.

Elston Left Note About Mystery Involving Him He Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Worry over opposition in congress to the building of a great naval base at Alameda, strongly desired by the people of his district, caused the suicide here of Representative J. A. Elston, California, the congressman's closest friends believe. Elston's body was found in the Potomac river here last night after the discovery of his overcoat and hat in the bank.

Elston had led a strenuous but in fight in the house for the Alameda naval base. He deemed the object of paramount importance to his district. The note found in his overcoat follows:

"I am in a chain of circumstances that spell ruin, although my offense was innocently made in the beginning. I hope all the facts will come out. My staying means embarrassment to my district and a worthy people, clean and meritorious."

Elston's friends were puzzled by his allusion to the "offense innocently made in the beginning." They said they were unaware of anything in Elston's past that could lead to his decision for self-suspension. Elston was last seen alive at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. His wrist watch was stopped at 6:01 and police believe he leaped into the river a few moments before that time.

JIM REED GIVES FEW SIDE WALLOPS

Missouri Senator Knocks Pacific Treaty From All Angles

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—A bitter attack on the quadruple Pacific treaty was started in the senate late today by Senator Reed, Missouri.

"I wish to address a few remarks to the quadruple alliance, which might better be called the American-Japanese alliance," said Reed. "This gold brick was hunched in secrecy one night. News of it leaked out the next morning. But after that, Secretary of State Hughes threw a cloud of secrecy about it greater than ever surrounding a conspiracy of kings."

Disarmament, Reed declared, is "a pack horse upon whose back is to be carried a quadruple alliance in the interest of Japan and Great Britain in the Orient, and to have the United States underwrite in the blood of its sons the ambitions and avarice of Great Britain and Japan in the southern seas."

Reed said that the United States, as the creditor nation of the world, would become the master of the seas in a race for naval supremacy. Many other nations, he said, would seize the opportunity to be the United States.

"The naval program," Reed declared, "makes Great Britain the absolute boss of the seas for ten years. It is a dangerous concession which went the entire limit of prudence."

Reed assailed the 5-5-3 naval ratio, asserting that Japan has been conceded "a navy out of proportion to her wealth, population."

THE SECRET

The thing that makes us learned, well, it's good to have and hold; It's fine to have such knowledge as the sages had of old.

Or as the newer wise men have; it's mighty dignified To be decreed and titled, and it stirs a proper pride.

The thing that makes us cultured, there is good in that thing, too, And it makes the world a better place for me as well as you.

But there's one thing that a lot of us have never fathomed yet: That's the thing that makes us happy, and the secret we must get.

The thing that makes us wealthy, well, the world has lots of gold. But it's tricky stuff and shifty and it's sometimes hard to hold; And even when you get it and you hold it, it may be A phantom thing of ashes, like the apples of Dead sea.

The things that make us handsome are delightful, even so, But they are not all important, as we homely people know; The thing that makes us famous is a thing that's sometimes small But the thing that makes us happy—that's the real thing after all!

The thing that makes for glory is a splendid thing, it's true, And men have given life for it, and done it nobly too. The thing that makes for goodness, well, that might provoke a quiz, Because it's mighty hard to say just what real goodness is; The thing that makes for power is sometimes a grievous thing, For on an aching brow may rest the crown of many a king; So life holds much to struggle for, but over all the rest, Is the thing that makes us happy—yes, I think that thing is best.

LECTURE ENTITLED CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

elation. In what an unfortunate position then is a person who declares that the teachings of Christian Science are not true, when he himself could prove that they are true, if he only would.

Because Mrs. Eddy has revealed the wonders of infinite truth, Christian Scientists recognize the fact that she must have understood divine Mind, God, in a transcendent degree, and hence was far more capable than any one else of declaring what should be done with her Church and her Cause. They are eager, therefore, to know what she teaches and advises in order that they may be benefited by the wisdom of her superior spiritual understanding, an understanding so far above their own.

Her Writings Her Interpreter

They are seeking the revelation as the revealer has given it knowing that their safety lies in doing this. They study Mrs. Eddy's writings very thoroughly, and more carefully than ever before, in order to make sure, by securing an interpretation of them directly from her own words, that they are really gaining a correct understanding of them, and are thereby avoiding the great danger of misinterpretation by some uninspired human thought. Mrs. Eddy needs no interpreter other than her own words.

In pursuing this study, Christian Scientists use very largely her two concordances, books which contain nearly all the words in her writings. If they wish to know what Mrs. Eddy's thought is regarding any question, or if they are seeking light upon a problem of their own, upon some disputed point, or upon some religious teaching, they look up in these concordances the words involved, read and ponder the use which Mrs. Eddy makes of these words in all her books, carefully study the meanings with which she uses them, and make accurate differentiation between the human and divine; then they invariably receive a scientific, spiritual thought which will be a satisfying one to them if they are honest, if they are really seeking the revelation.

Do we not see then, why Christian Science is truly the Science of right living? It involves the knowing of Truth which is the Principle of right living, the recognition of the deceptive character of matter and evil, the cause of wrong living, and the operation of the divine healing law, the law of divine Principle, which makes the healing of all evil tendency possible. Thus is established moral and physical health, thus is inculcated a true love for God, for His Christ, and for man, and thus is bestowed the blessing resulting from Christian living.

"Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think of these things." (Phil. 4:8).

By thus reflecting divine Truth and Love, we have begun to heal ourselves, to help others and to benefit the whole world.

A literary man found himself in the company of a youth with whom he experienced some difficulty in finding a suitable topic of conversation. He tried books.

"Have you read anything good lately?"

"Yes, I've just been reading a splendid book."

"Indeed, what was it?"

"Well, I forgot the name."

"Who was the author?" hopelessly.

"Oh, I don't know."

"Well, what was it about?" desperately.

"Indeed I've forgotten." Long pause—then, eagerly, "it had a red cover."

DAHLIA HEIGHTS NOW ON MARKET

H. E. Barnum Co. Has Charge of New Eagle Rock Lot Sale

The long suspense has been broken and the big Dahlia Heights tract of seventy acres of the finest hillside homesites and business property in this section located at Eagle Rock has been thrown open to buyers by H. E. Barnum & Company. For several weeks it has been known that this fine tract of land would be subdivided and offered to buyers, but it has required much time to work out the details, make the surveys, etc. However, the work was completed this morning at 8 o'clock and in a big advertisement elsewhere in this paper Barnum & Company, whose offices are at 746 East Colorado boulevard, Eagle Rock, for the first time offer this choice property to buyers. This is one of the best pieces of tract property to be opened by the company.

The tract in question, comprising 70 acres, is almost in the heart of the city, lying on a beautiful slope north of the boulevard and extending to the top of the first range of hills. Its eastern boundary reaches nearly to Rosemont avenue, the western to the lots on the east side of Royal drive. An olive grove cov-

SHANTUNG WILL NOT BAR PROGRESS

Bryan Sees No Reason Why Conference Should Not Succeed

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN (Copyright, 1921, by United Press)

The Shantung question seems to be the difficult problem just now, but it cannot long obstruct the road to peace if Japan is willing to surrender possessions now or at a fixed time in the near future. Any fair conditions that she may suggest for the protection of property interests there can easily be met by China. When China is recognized as an independent nation, with full sovereignty over her domain and freed from the restrictions that have embarrassed her, she will have no trouble in securing the money necessary for the purchase of any property that the aliens now control.

Japan has shown such a willingness to conform to the spirit of the conference that she can be counted upon to make any concessions that can be reasonably asked in the interests of peace in the Far East.

Even the requests that Japan makes for the retention of the Mutsu, just launched, need not embarrass the conference if the adjustment made necessary does not compel the surrender of the naval holiday. It would be a serious thing if any demand made by Japan should prevent the entire suspension of the construction of battleships. The proposition that the United States be permitted to retain two of her new battleships and that Great Britain be permitted to build two would not only very much lessen the moral force of the Hughes proposition but sentimentally speaking, it would greatly weaken the impression made by the cessation of work in navy yards. It is possible that the addition made to Japan's navy by the retention of the Mutsu may be offset by the scrapping of an equal tonnage of smaller ships and it is likewise possible that such a division might be made between Great Britain and America as to permit the suspension of all work on naval craft for the proposed time. It would be most unfortunate if the conclusion of the conference brought the anti-climax. The delegates cannot afford to dampen the enthusiasm aroused at the beginning of the gathering.
